

IS THIS RUDOLPH SPRECKELS THE MAN CALIFORNIA WANTS TO SEND TO THE U. S. SENATE?

Claus Spreckels Disowning His Son, Rudolph Spreckels

Claus Spreckels to His Son, Rudolph Spreckels—"YOU INGRATE. YOU UNWORTHY SON. YOU ARE WORSE THAN AN INGRATE. I DISOWN YOU. I DON'T WANT TO HAVE ANYTHING TO DO WITH YOU. YOU WHO WOULD LIE ABOUT YOUR OWN FATHER."—[From the Record of Testimony in Suit of First National Bank of San Francisco vs. Tribune Publishing Company.]

Rudolph Spreckels is on record in the Supreme Court of California, through his counsel, as objecting TO HIS MOTHER'S AND FATHER'S complaint against him; THAT IT DID NOT APPEAR THEREFROM THAT HE (RUDOLPH SPRECKELS) KNEW HIS FATHER WAS A MARRIED MAN.

Schmitz and Ruef, Happy and Radiant, Appear in Court

Ex-Mayor Chats and Laughs, but Will Not Tell His Plans---Ruef Explains Why He Entered Plea of Guilty.

(Special to The Tribune)
SAN FRANCISCO Jan. 10.—Smiling and happy, radiant with the hope bestowed upon them by the decision of the Appellate Court yesterday, both Eugene E. Schmitz and Abraham Ruef appeared in Judge Lawson's court this morning to answer some of the numerous charges against them on indictments found by the grand jury.

Neither Schmitz nor Ruef made any effort this morning to effect their release on bail. Go to the legal for what they have to be gone through with before the matter can be taken up and neither of the defendants has yet had time to decide on a plan of action.

Ruef was a little late in arriving at the court. His automobile broke down in the mud of the Mission road and he was compelled to amble his journey on the street. When interviewed this morning, Mr. Ruef said:

WHY RUEF PLEADED GUILTY
I am able now to furnish but in any amount but I have not yet decided as to just what I will do. I may know what my course will be this evening, but at this time I have not decided. I am sure that I always maintained that the charges in the indictment were entirely not sufficient to convict me and that in a sense I was not guilty of them. I pleaded guilty for personal reasons and for personal considerations of which I will tell in court when the proper time comes, but I do not feel that I should say any more now.

SCHMITZ CHATS AND LAUGHS
Schmitz, who was accompanied by Attorney Frank Drew, also refused to say anything at all until he had opportunity to consult with his attorneys. Campbell, Nelson and Barall. He looked particularly jovial, chatted and laughed with the newspaper men and attorneys, and on the whole seemed more like his old self than he has been since a judgment was passed upon him.

RUEF HOLDS CONFERENCE WITH LANGDON AND BURNS

SAN FRANCISCO Jan. 10.—Soon after his arrival at Temple Street Ruef held a conference with Langdon and Burns. A few minutes later he went to the office of the Board of Supervisors.

Some of the points of the conference would go into the details of the indictment, what the object and purpose of the meeting was, but it may be said that the release of Ruef is a big one of the developments that is expected in the possible compromise between him and the prosecution. The release of the trial of the Schmitz judgment will be also a big one of the developments that is expected in the possible compromise between him and the prosecution.

It was also freely said today that the district attorney's office expects the return of Judge Langdon and a plea of guilty to the county jail on Wednesday and that the Langdon has been in the county jail for some time. The plea of guilty to the prosecution when on the trial of the Schmitz judgment will be also a big one of the developments that is expected in the possible compromise between him and the prosecution.

THEY SHOW THAT ON THE WEDNESDAY TEST THE ROCK ONLY SHOWED SIX PER CENT OF A WEAR TODAY THE PER CENT WOULD BE 8-12 UNDER THE TERMS OF THE CONTRACT THE ALLOWANCE FOR WEAR IS 15 PER CENT.

The tests are made by putting samples of rock in a revolving cylinder which is kept operating for three hours. The rock thus kept in motion is constantly rubbing against the iron sides of the cylinder—a hard test.

The samples were not taken from the quarry but dug from a hundred places on the boulevard.

Another severe slap is about to be given the Grand Jury report recently made by Charles Ingler and his fellow Grand Jury men.

Among other things in the report which was from its nature a sort of campaign propaganda it was alleged that the rock was rotten which was put on the boulevard by the contractors and sanctioned by the Supervisors.

At the last meeting of the Board of Supervisors the County Surveyor was ordered to make an investigation and report.

Such a test has been under way for two days. It reveals that the Grand Jury allegations like other they made are of no standing.

The tests made yesterday and today in the United Iron Works under the supervision of County Surveyor Hall and in the presence of his engineers and those of the contractors.

WORKMEN MOB PARLIAMENT IN PRUSSIA

Laborers Demand Their Full Share in Running Government.

BERLIN Jan. 10.—The most intense excitement has been aroused here by an interpretation presented recently to the Prussian parliament by a liberal member demanding the introduction of manhood suffrage in the election of members of the lower house of the Prussian Landtag. Last night no fewer than thirty-five Socialist mass meetings were held in Berlin, as well as many others in the country districts in favor of the move. Today before the Landtag convened Socialists to the number of 1000 marched in procession before the parliament building. The demonstration was what a threatening aspect of political activity was called for by the Socialists. They surrounded the building and cleared the surrounding streets.

The present electoral system in Prussia there are three classes of electors. Up to the present time the laboring man has been completely deprived of representation in the Prussian parliament owing to the fact that he was overwhelmed at the final elections by the other two classes.

FIGHT PEOPLE RULE
The election of electors are formed in three classes. A small number of persons paying the first third of the total of taxation, select a certain number of electors.

POSTMASTER FISK WINS; HIS ENEMIES TURNED DOWN

HE'S TO BE NAMED TO SUCCEED HIMSELF

His Reappointment Conceded to Be a Great Victory for Senator Perkins.

(Special to The Tribune)
WASHINGTON D. C. Jan. 10.—It is stated on unquestioned authority that Arthur Fisk, present postmaster of San Francisco, will be named to succeed himself either today or by Monday next.

This is conceded to be a great victory for Senator Perkins who together with Senator Flint has been urging the appointment against the fight made by Francis J. Heney and Congressmen Kahn and Hayes. President Roosevelt has given the matter considerable thought and attention and has turned down the enemies of Postmaster Fisk.

Both Kahn and Hayes made their opposition a personal matter but the President has shown clearly on several occasions his disinclination to interfere with San Francisco local conditions or violate precedents and favorably considered at all times the grounds placed before him by Senator Perkins for the reappointment and selection of Fisk to succeed himself.

The record of Postmaster Fisk in conducting the office in San Francisco has equalled that of any postoffice in the United States.

ROCK TESTS SHOW ABSURDITY OF GRAND JURY REPORT ON THE SCENIC BOULEVARD ROAD BED

RECORD DESTROYED
EPPINGER CASES DROPPED

Famous Grain Fraud Charges Dismissed—Evidence Gone.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—Judge Lawlor this morning put an end to the famous Eppinger grain fraud cases when he struck them from his calendar in Department 11 of the Superior Court this morning.
It will be remembered that the alleged fraud of the grain fraud of the Eppingers in 1904, involving the alleged obtaining of more than $1,000,000 by false pretenses, was a sensation of the year.
The charges formed a big sensation in the local stock exchange.
The failure of the Eppingers involved more than a million of dollars and two indictments were found by the grand jury against Jacob Eppinger, Joseph Eppinger, Herman Eppinger and James Eppinger, the latter having had charge of the Port Costa warehouses.
Jacob Eppinger, a feeble old man in the last days of his life, was brought to trial, but the jury disagreed, and the case was to have been retried on April 10, 1906, which will long be remembered for the fact that the great fire was at that time raging in this city.
All the records were totally destroyed with one or two exceptions, and these have practically proved valueless to the District Attorney's office. This morning
Assistant District Attorney O'Gara represented to the court that the records could not be restored and he did not have enough evidence to convict the defendants. Judge Lawlor thereupon ordered that the indictments be dismissed, the cases stricken from the calendar and bill of particulars. The defendants were represented by Attorney Oliver Dibble.

HENEY GETS SECOND
REBUFF IN ONE WEEK

Reversed Last Monday by U. S. Supreme Court and Yesterday by San Francisco Court of Appeals.

PORTLAND, Oregon, Jan. 10.—Pyrrhic victories seem to be coming Francis J.
Honey's way. One more like the conviction of Schmitz in San Francisco and of Williamson in this city and he will certainly have to hotfoot it to the tall pines of Oregon, yelling "Wolf, wolf!"
Two reversals in one week is pretty tough even on such a strenuous and vociferous prosecutor as Honey. He got the first last Monday when the Supreme Court of the United States at Washington reversed the decision of the Federal Court of Oregon in the Williamson case, ruling that Judge Hunt of the trial court had erred in his instructions to the jury.
The leading papers here, commenting on that decision, declared it "a body blow to the government in all the land fraud cases." And, hot on the heels of this morsel comes the decision of the Court of Appeals, sitting at San Francisco, reversing the Schmitz case, declaring the indictments invalid and holding that Dunne, the trial judge, erred egregiously.
The belief here is that the fault lies wholly with the "hurry" methods of Honey—too much brass band and too little backbone; big promises and bad performances. In other words, that "railroading" is not law and that first convictions are not always the best. At any rate, it seems that Honey's methods do not get the goods, except on credit and that the credit goes glimmering when the courts come to pass upon it.

HENEY AND LANGDON
UPBRAIDED BY RABBI

Dr. Nieto Charges Prosecutors With Failure to Keep Faith With Abe Ruef.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—"There is in some of the morning papers," said one of the best informed men in this city as he spoke of alleged secrets of the graft prosecution, to a TRIBUNE reporter, today, "a story to the effect that Rabbi Nieto of the Temple Israel, and Rabbi Kaplan of Temple Ohab Shalom called on the graft prosecution yesterday for the purpose of trying to convince them that Ruef should be granted full immunity for his alleged offenses, for the reason that he had, as alleged, aided the prosecution in its work."
That is not the case. The rabbis went to see Honey and Langdon for the purpose of upbraiding them because they did not keep faith with Ruef.
It is a fact that some time ago in the early days of the prosecution, when Langdon and Honey sought Ruef's assistance, they guaranteed him immunity.
"That immunity was promised Rabbi Nieto of Temple Israel by Honey and Langdon was present at the time."
The promise has not been redeemed.

CLAIMS FRIEND AND

Wealthy Chicago Miner Alleged to Have Broken Up a Home.

Horace H. Powell, a machinist in the employ of the Oakland Traction Company, has reported to the police that his wife Edith has eloped with E. Wael, a wealthy mining man from Chicago. He says they fled December 28.
Powell did not care to discuss the case today other than to say he had not heard directly from his wife since she left, and that Wael had been a guest at their home, an apartment house at 2130 West street.
Mrs. Powell is said to have left a farewell note, saying she no longer loved her husband.
"When last heard from Mrs. Edith Powell and E. Wael were in Seattle," said Mrs. Brand, the landlady with whom the Powells were living. "Wael was the guest of the Powells since last September. On December 28th he left with Mrs. Powell. He had been invited to spend a few months with Mr. Powell, an intimate friend of his. Mr. Wael has a family in the East I understand and Mr. Powell intends to make it warm for him."

GERMANS TO INVESTIGATE
CAUSE OF FATAL ATTACK

VALPARAISO, Chile, Jan. 10.—The encounter three days ago between a party of Germans and the residents of a hamlet about midway between this city and Santiago, in which one German was killed and five wounded, has today assumed a more serious aspect. The matter has been brought to the attention of the authorities by the German Legation, and a thorough investigation will be made. The Germans approached the village after dark and were mistaken by the inhabitants for bandits. The people fired on the travelers with the result above set forth.

PROTEST AGAINST PROSECUTION'S TACTICS

Attorneys for United Railroads Object to Any More Postponements.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—The attorneys for Patrick Calhoun, Thorne-well Mulhally, Trevelyan L. Ford, and William M. Abbott this morning voiced a protest in Judge Lawlor's department against the methods of the prosecution in indefinitely postponing the hearing of these cases.
When Judge Lawlor called his calendar, Attorney O'Gara arose and asked that the matters be continued until Tuesday, January 14. Attorney Stanley Moore, representing the defendants, immediately arose and protested.

"If your honor please," said Moore,
"we would like an understanding as to when these cases are to be tried. Mr.
Calhoun is in the East and will be here on February 1 and we would like a definite date set for the beginning of his trial at any rate."
O'Gara replied that he would be better able to meet the question on Tuesday next and the defense consented to the continuance until that time.

The cases of Eugene E. Schmitz and Abraham Ruef on indictments found in the same connection were continued until the same date by consent.

The cases of E. G. Drum, Eugene de Sabla, John Martin and Eugene E.
Schmitz, indicted in connection with the gas trust bribery, were continued by consent until January 24, to be set.

The cases of Umbson, Brobeck and Green, which were on the calendar in Judge Dunne's department this morning, were continued for one week on motion of Assistant District Attorney William Hoff Cook. The defendants, who were indicted by the grand jury, in connection with the Parkside bribery had entered a demurrer to the indictment and this had only been served upon the district attorney last night. He has not yet had time to examine into the merits of it and for that reason the continuance was asked.

Prince Von Buelow, the Imperial chancellor, has made known his intention of speaking on this subject during the debate which is to follow the presentation of the interpellation.
The crowd before the parliament building increased rapidly and soon numbered many thousands.
When the doors were opened those nearest to them had to force their way into the building. The police resisted and managed to keep the people back.

A dozen men did force an entrance, but they were quickly hauled back by the police.

The police were still trying to maintain order, when Prince Von Buelow drove up. His presence was greeted with loud and ironical cheers, accompanied by much shouting and shouts of
"We want manhood suffrage."
The police in the meantime had been strongly reinforced, and fearing that the rising of the crowd would lead to violent disturbances they decided to clear the approaches to the building. They drove the crowd before them into the side streets. As the people were being hurdled away they hissed continually. The police did not draw their weapons and no arrests were made. The people remained in the vicinity of the building.

The Eilers Music Co.

Famous as the Most Progressive Piano House on the Coast, Would Suggest a Few New Year's Maxims:

Don't get grouchy. Cheer up—get a move on! While those who try to compete with us are bemoaning the pessimistic idea that the country has gone to the dogs, we are hustling and getting lots of business.

There's business to be had and plenty of it, but you've got to hustle a little harder—that's all. It takes more than a radiator to heat a room—it's got to have steam in it. It also takes more than the old fashioned stereotyped special sale advertising to sell pianos right at this time. The EILERS MUSIC CO. fully realize this, while their prices are always the lowest, upon this occasion the question of profit has been eliminated altogether.

NOTE. We absolutely guarantee you a saving of 33-1-3 per cent on any piano you purchase and positively make this condition a part of the sale. We are challenged by competitors for being price cutters. We reserve the right, however, to conduct our business in a way that suits ourselves.

Now only think of it.—$250.00 pianos for $183.00 to $275.00 pianos for $198.00, $300.00 pianos for $214.00, $350.00 pianos for $228.00, $400.00 pianos for $242.00 and $500.00 pianos for $376.00. This enormous price reduction includes any new piano or auto-piano in our immense stock.

Every dollar you deposit as first payment up to $75.00 you will receive a receipt for twice the amount. This is the most remarkable proposition ever submitted by any one, anywhere. Our terms of payment the easiest! The Eilers money-back guarantee accompanies each piano! Don't fail to at least call and examine.

This offering is only for ten days. EILERS MUSIC CO. 1075 Clay Street, Oakland. Shattuck Ave. and Bancroft Way, Berkeley.

WED ACCORDING TO ANCIENT RITES OF TRIBE

Red Men of Berkeley Conduct Marriage of Two Members of Lodge.

BERKELEY, Jan. 10.—Redmen and daughters of Pocahontas conducted the wedding of Miss Mary Alburtes and Robert Logie, which was solemnized last evening in Bonta Hall in this city. The ceremony was conducted according to the ancient rites of the tribe, and made a pretty wedding. After the service the pipe of peace was smoked, and a wedding dance was held.

The bride is a member of Mohawk Council, and the bridegroom of Cherokee Tribe. The wedding is one of the few Pocahontas weddings that has taken place in Berkeley. A large number of Red Men and Daughters of Pocahontas attended the ceremony. Robert Logie is an employee at the Institute for the Deaf and Dumb. After a short honeymoon in the southern part of the State he and his bride will reside in Berkeley.

NO CRIME TO LEVY ON RESTAURANTS, DECLARE THE JUSTICES

And any of the $5000 which it was claimed Ruef received. Let us ask the plain common sense question as addressed to a person of ordinary understanding: "Was the defendant examined in chief about the $5000 or the payment of any part of it to himself?" The answer is "No." If the defendant was examined in chief about the payment of money to himself by Ruef how does it appear? The conversation with Ruef about the French restaurants all being had and that they should be closed was not about the payment of money to defendant by Ruef. The conversation as to Ruef's visit to the Poodle Dog was not about the payment of money to defendant by Ruef. The conversation with Ruef about the French restaurants was not about the payment of money to Ruef by defendant. Whether or not Ruef made such statement was the subject about which defendant had testified. Defendant had testified that he informed defendant of a certain report. Defendant denied that such information was given him by Ruef.

UNIFORM DECISIONS

The decisions are uniform that under the section quoted the cross examination of a defendant cannot be extended beyond the subject matters concerning which he was examined in chief (People vs. McGinnill 41 Cal. 429 People vs. Rozelle 7 Cal. 93 People vs. Gallagher 100 Cal. 456 People vs. Arrighini 122 Cal. 126 People vs. Morton 139 Cal. 77).

We have carefully examined the case of People vs. Gallagher supra relied upon by the prosecution but find nothing in it in any way inconsistent with what has been said. The question in cross-examination of the defendant in that case related to sums of money being changed into currency in San Francisco in company with and in connection with one Elleguy who was parties criminal and as to defendant going to Sixteenth street with $5000 at Elleguy's dictation. But defendant in his direct examination had testified about meeting Elleguy by appointment that he did not advise Elleguy to draw the money from the bank or to go off with it nor suggest nor consent to his doing so. It is plain that the cross examination related to the very matters—Elleguy's money—going away with it which had been testified to by the witness in chief. We fully agree with the statement in that case that if the questions would have a tendency to elucidate from him the whole truth about any matters upon which he had been examined in chief they would be proper but the reasoner does not apply to the facts in this case because this defendant was not examined about the matter in chief.

ERROR NOT CURED

The cross examination being erroneous the error was not cured by the witness answering the question in the negative. For the reason that the prosecution subsequently used this examination of the defendant as a basis for introducing other evidence of Ruef which properly was a part of the case of the People in chief (People vs. Morton supra). The rationale involved was perhaps what the prosecution expected so that under the guise of rebuttal they could call Ruef to the stand to contradict the defendant and that is what was done. It is evident that by the rules of law and that regard to fitness which would characterize a juror that if the prosecution had been allowed to prove that defendant did not accept part of the money extorted by the conspiracy and paid to him by Ruef such evidence should have been produced as a part of the case for the prosecution. The defendant has the right to hear the evidence against him before being required to meet it.

The evidence and all the evidence tending to show his guilt should have been produced. If Ruef paid or gave defendant money part of the proceeds of the crime the prosecution should have produced the evidence as a part of its case. The defendant would then have had the right to meet the evidence as part of his defense. In this case Ruef was not paid upon the witness stand nor was any evidence given as to any money being paid to defendant but the evidence was held back until defendant was asked the questions in cross-examination. Then in the guise of rebuttal the evidence of Ruef was brought forth under the claim that it was to contradict the defendant but really for the purpose of proving facts which were part of the case for the prosecution in the first instance. Such practice would be a great injustice to a defendant. It would be contrary to the very criminal trials are usually conducted in our courts. It would be contrary to every man's sense of right and justice. It is of much more importance that every defendant should have a fair and impartial trial under the rules of evidence laid down by the allied judges and established by centuries of experience than that a defendant in some particular case should be convicted. It is important that a defendant if guilty of the crime with which he is charged should be convicted but it is of greater importance that the constitutional right of each and every one to a fair trial under the rules of evidence and the forms of law adopted in the light of experience shall be preserved inviolate. It goes to the very foundation of our republican institutions.

RUEF ON STAND

The prosecution under the claim that it was rebuttal called for the first time the witness Ruef who was allowed under defendant's objection and exception to testify that about January or February 1935 he gave to defendant at one time $2500 and at another $1000 in currency at the same time stating to defendant that it was part of the money he the witness had received from the French restaurants as a fee under his agreement with them and that if defendant would receive it he should be glad to pay it to him and that defendant did receive it. The evidence could not possibly have been rebuttal except for the purpose of contradicting the statement elicited from defendant on cross-examination and as we have already held that such cross examination was a rehearse it is not necessary to discuss the question in this regard further. The defendant's counsel asked many questions of the witness Ruef in cross-examination to which objections were sustained only a few of which we will notice as they are enough to illustrate the view we entertain of the rulings.

The witness admitted that he had stated to the prosecution that if he should testify to the facts in all their details as they are the larger part of them would in his judgment be favorable to the defendant. Counsel for the defendant then asked the question: "Well what were these facts that state them now in detail in relation to this case?"

The court sustained the objection of the prosecution to this question. The witness testified that he had had many conversations with Mr. Burns a detective in the employ of the prosecution and with Mr. Heney a deputy district attorney as to his testimony and as to how he should be shown him in case he should testify fully as to the facts.

QUESTION OF GUILT

The attorney for the defendant then asked him: "Did you at any conversation with these gentlemen tell them that you would not stand for anything except complete immunity?" The court sustained the objection of the District Attorney to this question upon the ground that it was irrelevant incompetent and immaterial and no foundation had been laid. The witness had in the first place pleaded not guilty to the indictment in this case but afterwards withdrew his plea and entered a plea of guilty. Defendant's counsel after eliciting such facts from the witness asked him the following questions referring to his plea of not guilty.

Q—Was that true?

Q—What do you mean then Mr. Ruef, by that statement that you were not guilty of this charge?

Q—Mr. Ruef say if you were not guilty in this case as you stated did you change your plea after you had your conversation with Mr. Burns in which he told you he would do all he could for you to secure leniency in these indictments?

To each of the above questions the court sustained objections made by the District Attorney upon the ground that they were not proper cross examination. The attention of the witness was called

Malice or Interest Animated Court of Appeals, Says Dunne

It seems to me from reading the opinion that the judge who wrote it thin s f and not the grand jury was responsible for the indictment of his brother-in-law Mr. Brobeck.

The case was submitted yesterday and decided this morning in an opinion covering thirty-two typewritten pages.

I am satisfied the opinion was written to protect Ruef instead of Schmitz and to keep him from testifying against the friends and relatives of the judges of that court.

I think the decision was hurried by my action in ending Ruef to jail. The fear was that he would there weaken and tell all he knew.

IGNORED NEW YORK CASES DECLARES DUNNE

There is no question of the sufficiency of that indictment in rendering their decision against it the Appellate Court entirely ignored the two leading New York cases that have long governed the question at issue.

Who ever before heard of a court (proceeding a case on its merits and reaching a conclusion and then as a gag or afterthought decide that the indictment was defective—that the whole machinery of the lower court was wrongfully put in action? Such a method of decision seems childish and any court that indulges in such special pleading must be animated by no other than malice or interest.

THINKS COURT NEEDED AN ELISOR

I believe if I had had the power to appoint an elisor for that court and had been able to protect it from outside influence it would have rendered a decision more in conformity with the law and the evidence.

About the only thing the decision does not do is to advise Schmitz to sue Mayor Taylor for the back salary of the term of office of which Schmitz was deprived.

The only pity is that we now cannot get all the truth. It is of small consequence who is indicted or who convicted so long as we can reach the exact truth.

SEEMS TO PUT GAG ON TRUTH

This decision seems to put a gag in the mouth of truth and to make it harder than ever to reach the facts.

I firmly believe the honest grand jury which returned that indictment and the honest trial jury which rendered that verdict will be remembered by a grateful community long after the names of the present judges of the Appellate Court have been lost and forgotten.

The reference to relationship made in Judge Dunne's statement is explained by the following family connection of the judges.

In Judge F. H. Kerrigan is married to a daughter of James McNab who is Gavin McNab's brother.

Judge J. A. Cooper is married to a sister of the wives of W. I. Brobeck and Gavin McNab. Brobeck was indicted by the Olyer grand jury for participation in the Parkside robbery case.

Judge S. P. Hall is the brother in law of A. A. Moore counsel for Tiry.

J. Ford and Patrick Calhoun of the United Railroads.

to a verified answer filed by him in November 1935 in a civil suit which had been brought against him by the District Attorney in which he swore that he had not committed any felony or any crime in any way in connection with the matters alleged in the complaint which I been filed against him. Defendant's counsel then with the answer before them asked the witness several questions as to portions of the answer and as to what after swearing that he had not committed any crime he afterwards entered a plea of guilty as to the same matter.

The court again sustained the objections of the District Attorney to each and every such question as not proper cross examination.

TIME OF PAYMENT

The witness was asked as to the time of paying or giving to the defendant the money in currency as testified to by him and defendant's counsel then asked the following question.

Q—Did you have prior to that time any conversation with defendant in relation to this division or giving him any part of any fee which you received from the French restaurant keepers?

The court under the objection of the prosecution refused to permit the witness to answer.

Other questions were:

Q—Mr. Ruef did you go to the French restaurant keepers, or did they come to you?

Q—Did you tell the defendant in any conversation that you had ever threatened any restaurant keeper that if they did not pay you any money their licenses would be held up?

Q—Now I will ask you this Mr. Ruef if you are not now giving your testimony under the expectation of immunity—complete immunity?

The court refused to permit any of these questions to be answered and held that they were not proper cross examination.

RULINGS ERRONEOUS

These rulings were erroneous, and highly prejudicial to defendant. The witness Ruef was jointly accused of the alleged crime for which defendant was being tried. Not only this but he had confessed it and pleaded guilty to it. He was the party who made the contract with the proprietors of the French restaurants and who received the money from them. After having done all these things and later having confessed himself guilty of a felony he turned and took the witness stand against one who had been his friend—at least his political friend. He not only confessed himself a criminal but went upon the stand to assist in convicting his co-defendant of the alleged crime of which he had pleaded guilty. His conduct had been such that under the plain provisions of the Penal Code his evidence was branded so that the defendant could not have been convicted upon it without corroborative testimony.

NOT FAIR TO SCHMITZ

Then was it not fair and just to defendant in order to investigate and arrive at the truth that the reasons motives and surroundings of the witness should be laid bare. He had changed his plea of not guilty to one of guilty and his attitude of friendship to defendant to that of a witness aiding and assisting the prosecution. If he had been promised complete immunity did not the defendant have the right to lay the fact before the jury so that they might determine the weight to give his evidence? If he had in another case before any promise had been made to him sworn to facts inconsistent with his present testimony was that not concealing of defend ant? The jury had the right to believe the witness Ruef but the defendant had the right to investigate every motive every statement every act and everything that might in any reasonable way have influenced him in his testimony and to have the jury know this before passing its judgment. In such cases it is elementary that the broadest license should be allowed in the cross examination of the witness. It is provided in the Code of Civil Procedure section 1844 that the presumption that a witness speaks the truth may be repelled by the manner in which he testifies by the character of his testimony or by evidence affecting his character for truth honesty or integrity or his motives or by contradictory evidence, and the jury are the exclusive judges of his credibility. (See People vs. Mitchell March 2 1907 13 Cal. 201.) It is further laid down in the Code (C. P. section 961) that the testimony of an accomplice ought to be viewed with distrust.

ALLOWED BROAD RANGE

The court allowed the prosecution a broad range in the cross examination of the defendant who is protected by the statute and who had not confessed to having committed a crime while on the other hand it narrowed and confined the cross examination of the co-conspirator who was not protected by the statute and who had branded himself as a felon. Such is not the policy of the law.

Defendants' demurrer to the indictment was overruled and it is now insisted that the indictment does not state facts sufficient to show that any public offense has been committed. It is necessary to pass upon the question for the reason that if the indictment falls to charge defendant with a public offense that is the end of this case.

CHARGES IN INDICTMENT

The indictment charges in substance that defendants are guilty of a felony to wit extortion committed on the 10th day of January 1935 in the city and county of San Francisco as follows: That defendants did unlawfully and feloniously extort from the parties named in the indictment with their consent $1175 by the wrongful use of fear induced by means of threats to do an unlawful injury to the property of the parties named the specific threat being alleged as follows: That the said Joseph Mafranti Charles Kolb and William Lafranz were then and there engaged in the business of maintaining and conducting a restaurant in the city and county of San Francisco and of selling at retail spirituous malt and fermented liquors and wines therein and for the purpose of continuing the selling of said liquors and wines the said Joseph Mafranti Charles Kolb and William Lafranz were required to have and obtain a license from the city and county of San Francisco and the said license was necessary to the said Joseph Mafranti Charles Kolb and William Lafranz for the purpose of preventing a party from obtaining a license or license by one who had no authority in the premises to a threat to induce property within the meaning of the sections quoted (Penal Code sec. 7 subds 10 and 12 in re McCabe 33 Pa. Rep. 130 Wolf vs. Nigh 40 Ohio St. 111 Carey vs. Rutherford 105 Mass. 1) it is however unnecessary to decide the question in this case for the reason that we are clearly of the opinion that the indictment is insufficient because it does not allege nor show that the specific injury threatened was an unlawful injury. The indictment does use the words "unlawful injury" in the first part of it but when the facts are specifically set forth as to what the defendants threatened to do we find that the threat was that defendants would prevent the said Joseph Mafranti Charles Kolb and William Lafranz from receiving said license of obtaining the same. There is no allegation that any unlawful act was threatened and the attorneys for the prosecution frankly admit that they rely upon the fact that the defendants obtained the money by threatening to do an injury which they claim was unlawful solely for the reason that the threats were made with the intent to extort money.

CLAIMS MADE

In other words it is claimed that even though the French restaurant proprietors were violating the law and conducting immoral places used as resorts by lewd women and thus not legally entitled to a license to sell liquor a threat to prevent the issuance of licenses to such places by laying the facts before the Board of Police Commissioners in no legal manner constitutes a crime if such threat was made with the intent to extort money. Such in our opinion is not the law. The statute uses the words that the threat must be to do an unlawful injury and in order to charge a crime the indictment must aver in some way that the threat was to do an unlawful injury. It is apparent from the language of the statute which we have hereinbefore quoted that it is not a mere kind of fear from another with his consent induced that will support a charge of extortion because of property obtained thereby. The fear must be induced by one of the threats enumerated in the statute. The Legislature has seen fit to provide that the threatened injury to property upon which a charge of extortion may be predicated must be an unlawful injury to property. That is the injury threatened must be in itself unlawful irrespective of the purpose with which the threat is made. As the word unlawful is used in the statute it qualifies the "injury" and not the "threat."

Unlawful means contrary to law. It is true that from a high standard of ethics it could not be claimed that one could extort money by a threat to do a lawful act if the intent was to get money by the use of the threat but every wrong is not made a crime. There are many wrongs done every day that are not enumerated in the category of crimes contained in the Penal Code that are of much more serious consequence in their nature than others which are defined therein but we must look to the statute to find whether or not an act is a public offense for which a prosecution will lie.

NOT A CRIME

To procure property from others by a more threat to do a lawful act is not a crime. The object of the statute—or at least one of its objects—is to protect the party from whom the property is extorted and if such party pays the money in order to secure protection in violating the law himself he cannot be heard to complain. He in such case would be a party to the violation of the law. In this case if the parties as a fact paid the money in order to prevent the evidence as to the character of places they kept from being exposed to the Board of Police Commissioners they are not in a position to complain. A man owning a lot would have the right to build a stable upon it. If he would build such a stable the $1000 was paid the party receiving the money would not be guilty of a crime. He did not threaten to do an unlawful injury because he had the right to build the stable upon his own lot. Anyone has the right to go before the Board of Police Commissioners if that body will hear him and object to the granting of a license to sell liquors to a person who is keeping a place in violation of the law. He has the right to threaten to go before the board and morally notify in obtaining money to induce him not to go out his threat but if he did receive money under such circumstances he would not come within the provisions of the statute. It is necessary in other times to allege that the act was unlawful. Murder is the unlawful killing of a human being with malice aforethought. Mayhem is unlawfully depriving a human being of a member of his body. An assault is an unlawful attempt to commit an injury upon the person of another and in other crimes the act must either be alleged to be unlawful or felonious or the facts must show it to be so.

UNLAWFUL DEFINED

In People vs. Tavelles 84 N. Y. S. 1114 it is said that an injury means an injury resulting from an act prohibited by the laws of the State. To the same effect see State vs. Hayworth 37 Penn. 61 Johnson vs. State 66 Ohio St. 54 Tatum vs. State 6 Ala. 405 2 Bishop's N. W. Crim. Law 178 Davis vs. State 3 Tex. Crim. App. 57.

Man in so questions and other crimes the act must either be alleged to be unlawful or felonious or the facts must show it to be so.

The judgment and order are reversed, and the trial court is directed to sustain the demurrer to the indictment and discharge the defendant as to such indictment. (Signed) P. J. COOPER

The Reversal of the Schmitz Verdict

The Appellate Court of the First District has preferred to be right, rather than popular. At the cost of being misjudged by the ignorant and prejudiced, and vilified by the malicious and evil-minded, the court has chosen to vindicate the purity and impartiality of judicial procedure in California. It has faced clamor and opprobrium to rescue the law and the administration of justice from a peril far graver and more potent for disaster than it is possible for a thousand Schmitzes and Ruefs to menace.

Broadly stated, the court has declared that criminal trials shall be fair and impartial and in accordance with the established modes of judicial procedure; that the rules of evidence shall be adhered to; jurors fairly chosen, and that testimony for and against a defendant shall be fairly, and honestly sifted as the law directs and in accordance with time-honored practice. In doing so, the court has set the seal of condemnation on grand juries and judges programing with private prosecutions to accomplish ends by irregular process and methods obnoxious to decency, fair play and the principles of justice. Incidentally, it has given a wholesome rebuke to government by indictment and the prostitution of the legal machinery to serve personal and political designs.

The question before the Appellate Court was not the innocence or guilt of Schmitz nor the character of the government of which he was the head, but whether he was tried fairly by an impartial jury properly chosen, in accordance with the laws of the land and the established usage in criminal procedure. Necessarily this involved an inquiry into the sufficiency of the indictment on which Schmitz was tried. The court was compelled to say whether the privilege of conducting an illegal and immoral business constituted a property right within the meaning of the law. It had to say whether an official warning to licensed liquor dealers that they must cease conducting houses of prostitution and immoral assignation constituted an unlawful and black-mailing threat; and whether conversations between such men at which neither the defendant nor any representative of his was present could be admitted as incriminating evidence against a public official against whom they entertained a visible and undisguised grudge. It was also necessary for the court to decide whether a private prosecution conducted in the name of the people should be permitted, with the aid of the presiding judge, to select the jury empanelled to try a defendant.

On all these points the court fearlessly declared itself, well knowing when it did so that the judges would bring upon themselves a storm of abuse and misrepresentation from the trial judge whose conduct was rebuked, the private prosecution whose designs were baffled and whose methods were condemned, and the debauched newspaper organs of Rudolph Spreckels, Francis J. Heney and William J. Burns. It will be represented, of course, that the Appellate Court has stretched out its arm to rescue Ruef and Schmitz from prison, but that will be false and malicious. The court exerted its august authority to rescue the law from the hands of conspirators and the administration of justice from prostitution to base ends. It could not do this without reversing a judgment obtained by a flagrant violation of every fundamental right guaranteed by the Federal and State constitutions, and the laws of California to every person accused of crime. It had to free Schmitz or set its seal of approval upon practices reeking with the infamy which clings to the memory of Scroggs and Jeffreys. It had to quash the indictment to prevent the defendant being brought to bar again and the public put to a great unnecessary expense, on other indictments equally defective, and subjected to a trial in which a conviction would be a nullity.

There may be a miscarriage of justice in the cases of Schmitz and Ruef, but if so the blame rests with their prosecutors and Judge Dunne. The law had to be upheld and justice vindicated, and the Appellate Court cannot be held responsible if vindicating justice and the right of fair trial under the law involves the discharge of Schmitz and Ruef. It is to the honor of the eminent jurists who rendered the decision that they have not treated the law as putty and its processes as the trick and device of chicanery and collusion between bench and prosecution. Speaking of the trial before Judge Dunne, the decision says:

"The Court allowed the prosecution a broad range in the cross-examination of the defendant, who is protected by the statute, and who had not confessed to having committed a crime; while on the other hand it narrowed and confined the cross-examination of the co-conspirator, who was not protected by the statute, and who had branded himself as a felon. Such is not the policy of the law."

These are facts of common knowledge. Who will say they are right? Commenting on them the Appellate Court says:

"It would be contrary to the way criminal trials are usually conducted in our courts. It would be contrary to every man's sense of right and justice. It is of much more importance that every defendant should have a fair and impartial trial, under the rules and evidence laid down by the ablest judges and established by centuries of experience, than that a defendant in some particular case should be convicted. It is important that a defendant, if guilty of the crime with which he is charged, should be convicted; but it is of greater importance that the constitutional right of each and every one to a fair trial, under the rules of evidence and the forms of law adopted in the light of experience, shall be preserved inviolate. It goes to the very foundation of our republican institutions."

Amen, say we.

This has been the position of THE TRIBUNE all along, and for which it is now being harassed by a libel suit instigated on false pretenses by Rudolph Spreckels. The decision also verifies the truthfulness of the reports of the Schmitz trial printed in THE TRIBUNE. Thank God, there are courts in the land brave enough to be right. Liberty and good government can never perish in a country possessing a fearless and upright judiciary.

The United States Supreme Court appears to regard the Heney method of prosecution with no more favor than the California District Court of Appeal. The Heney method, it may be remarked, violates the proprieties of the grand jury room, invades the sanctity of judicial process, destroys the impartiality of the jury box, gags and intimidates witnesses and suborns criminals with the promise of immunity for their own crimes to give incriminating testimony against others.

As soon as the decision of the Appellate Court in the Schmitz case was handed down a hurried consultation was held in the District Attorney's office—Heney, Langdon, Rudolph Spreckels, William J. Burns, J. J. Dwyer, Charles W. Cobb and Deputy District Attorney John O'Gara being present. Why Big Jim Gallagher and Judge Dunne were absent from the conclave is not stated. Ruef was represented at the conference.

Francis J. Heney, the brilliant fraud prosecutor, has opened the new year by recommending that Stephen A. D. Puter be pardoned from prison after a year in the service of Oregon for land swindling. After the way Mr. Heney got stung by granting an immunity bath to Abe Ruef of San Francisco, one would think he would keep in jail such of the few grainers he is able to put there. Prosecution and conviction is not the whole aim of the State. Some punishment ought to go with the conviction.—Seattle Times.

"Judge" Dunne emits a characteristic snarl against the judges of the District Court of Appeal. Evidently he glories in the title Gavin McNab gave him of being "a red rubber stamp for Rudolph Spreckels."

Mark Foolishness.

"When attacked by a cough or a cold, or when your throat is sore, it is rank foolishness to take any other medicine than Dr. King's New Discovery," says C. O. Eldridge of Empire, Ga. "I have used New Discovery seven years and I know it is the best remedy on earth for coughs and colds, croup, and all throat and lung troubles. My children are subject to croup and New Discovery quickly cures every attack. I know the world over as the King of throat and lung remedies. HOW TO ENGAGE A MAID

Who is not familiar with the long tale of woe told by both mistress and maid? "Everything that I told her to do," she said, "is this my work?" complains the former. "An I never knew when my work was done, she was always finding some thing new for me." "She never told me there was that many in the family, or I wouldn't have gone to her," scolds the latter.

Now a great deal of trouble could be avoided if the interview between the parties was conducted in a franker and more businesslike way.

To make a general rule as how work can be done in a house is obviously impossible. Conditions vary so, that, what can be quickly done in one house, may be the heaviest part of the work in another.

This is where the mistress must show her executive ability and study the problem until the work is evenly divided.

Before interviewing a possible maid, sit down quietly and divide the amount of work that there is to be done, by the number of people that you are able to employ to do it.

People who employ a number of servants are not under consideration, it is a household where one maid or possibly two must do every thing that is to be done.

Don't forget in your planning that heavy work and frilly service of an elaborate description should not be expected from the same woman.

Skilled workers, in no matter what capacity, never have been haulers of coal and drawers of water, and they never will be; it is unreasonable to expect the combination.

Use plenty of common sense, and if you doubt as to just what you can expect to have accomplished in a day, try doing some work yourself and see just what you can get through in a given time.

When you have arranged the duties of each person for each day, decide what days out you will give and what wages you will pay, write out a little schedule showing the week's work.

Now you are ready to talk business.

State briefly and clearly to the maid what you expect of her, what her wages are to be and what days out you will give.

Give her the schedule so that she sees just how you have arranged the work that she is to do.

Tell her what your rules are as to having friends come to see her and if you allow men to come to the house.

Tell her how many persons there are in the family and what arrangements you have in her room; if she must share it with another servant.

DRESS FADS FROM PARIS

Paris has struck a new note of novelty this year in the hat pin it is displaying," writes the noted authority, Grace Margaret Gould, in the Woman's Home Companion. "They give the French touch, not a hint, to a hat which would not be noticed without them. Surely they are old enough to attract attention. One of the notes is a little parasol made of chrome and enamel. You can have it in many colors. If you happen to have a purple hat you will have no trouble at all to select a parasol hat pin to blend with it, for they are shown in many variations of the violet and purple shades. The pin is gilt, and so are the tips of the parasol. In point of use the fashionable hat pin grows and grows, and one would have a long and hard search in Paris if they were looking for a small hat pin, such as we all used a few years ago.

Many of the latest novelty hat pins in the form of a large gilt or silver ball have a surprisingly novel feature. They are known as the perfume hat pins. The upper part of the ball is perforated, and through the little holes one detects a perfume.

"Stippling in hair dressing is out of date," says and then more puffs of hair and more elaborate of hair ornaments are used. If they are chosen with wisdom, so that they are sure to be charming, they really add very much to one's appearance.

Bunches of gold grapes are used in making very pretty head dresses. Often times the vine and leaves on which they are mounted is covered with a twist of tulle exactly matching the gown in color. Or the band may be gold braided or plain with one bunch always fastened toward the back. Green grapes with a silvery tinge are also used, and a very smart and unusual head dress to wear with a purple or violet gown is made of a braided band of gold cord and purple velvet, with the grapes themselves deep purple in color.

Gold roses are also used to picture a delicate advantage in the hair. It's a fetching little bud fastened at the back with a gold rose and a drooping bud or two, and then to wear in the hair a band of either gold or black velvet with a gold rose and a few leaves caught at each side.

"Every woman is carrying a bar these days," a French novelty is known as the frog hat. It is made of gray suede with a frogskin applied to it. The skin is most realistic looking and is in a shade just a little lighter than the suede used for the bag.

"Bags of colored leather, particularly in purple, green and pink, are very much the fashion both in Paris and London.

Any questions, politely asked, that bear on her life while in your employ should be frankly and fully answered. A thorough understanding on both sides is the best basis for a permanent agreement.

The maid, if she has been in service before, should furnish a reference from her last place, as to her honesty, sobriety, truthfulness and cleanliness, personal and about her work.

She should be willing to answer questions as to her ability to perform what is required of her.

If the woman has never been in service before she should either have a letter from her pastor or school teacher, or have someone who can vouch for her respectability.

Of course, some women come to this country knowing no one, but as a general rule it is not wise to engage a person who has no reference of any description as it generally means that she is one of the class of incompetents who will not learn, and drift about from place to place with not much desire to do well or stay anywhere.

Start your maid fair. When she arrives she should be shown to a clean room in which to change her dress. Clean bed clothes and towels should be given her.

If any household catastrophe has made it impossible to have her work done up to the day of her coming, a little extra compensation with an explanation will generally satisfy her.

Do not expect a combination of all the virtues in one woman, if she had them all, depend upon it, she would not be doing housework.

Finally, never find fault when you are angry. If the woman follows your example and loses her temper, she will probably be impertinent and you may have to lose a maid who suits you.

If on the other hand she does not, the maid sets the mistress an example of self-control that must be humiliating to the one who has had the advantages of superior education and environment.

And, if the hat cannot match, it is at least possible to match the trimmings. The hat should be in keeping with the face. Otherwise a woman is ruined from beauty's standpoint.

"Putting a hat on straight is a most important thing, but one which few women study sufficiently. The woman who puts on her hat carelessly will, in almost every case, spoil its appearance. The trimmings will have a

WOMAN'S HAT MOST NECESSARY ADJUNCT.

Mlle. Sorel smiled, touched the brim of her white picture hat, and said:

"My answer is here. It is because I wear a hat. The hat I consider absolutely necessary to a woman's good appearance. The woman who takes off her hat makes a great mistake.

"Once upon a time," said she, "women looked pretty at the theater. There were many tales of love making in the audience while looking at the play. But that was long ago in the past. Nowadays the woman who goes to the theater is obliged to remove her hat. And this robs her of half her good looks and all of her romance.

"Women who go to the opera and sit in the boxes should take advantage of the privilege of wearing a picture hat. It just shades the face sufficiently and makes the complexion mystical. But, with the hat off, there is a certain vividness that is most unbecoming. The electric lights destroy the skin and the bright gleam takes away whatever of romance might have clustered around the hair and eyes.

"I am considered a wonderfully well dressed woman principally because I always wear a hat. I have hundreds of admirers, but not for my face. Of course, I well understand the value of a well selected chaplet, and I know when a hat suits my style of beauty.

"The woman who puts on a hat recklessly does not deserve to be called beautiful. And, indeed, she never is a beauty; her careless hat destroys her looks. The hat more than all the other articles of dress combined, will make a woman.

"I claim to be the inventor of the picture hat. I was the first to discover that a woman belongs to some period of dress. She may be purely Elizabethan, and, in that case, her dress must be Elizabethan, hair and all. She may be all empire, and her hats should be the vogue some seasons. Or her style may be cavalier, and she should wear the cavalier hat and feather. In this matter I claim to be the first: one to wear the cavalier hat with trailing feather.

"A woman should study her face until she learns the particular school or period to which she belongs, and she should, then, be faithful to that school or period. It is her only chance of looking nice.

HOW TO PUT ON YOUR HAT.

The putting on of a hat is important. The woman who simply lands her hat on top of her head, stabbing a pin or two through it, is pretty sure to destroy any vestige of good looks which she might ever have had. The hat should be slowly adjusted to one's coiffure, delicately spiked to the head with pins, and carefully bent to the face. It is then perfect, for it finishes the face and completes the appearance.

"Matching the hat to the complexion is one of the things that is taught to the woman who wants to be beautiful.

Very few women realize what an effect a sweet voice has on a man. A woman may be very pretty to look upon, may be faultlessly and bewitchingly attired and attractive in every way, and yet too often directly she opens her mouth and speaks the spell is broken, the charm is gone. And this need never be.

Very few voices are so naturally bad that they will not succeed in training the voice can be trained to be just as sweet and gentle as one pleases to make it.

A woman should speak in a low voice. She should not allow her voice to raise itself to a high pitch. A shrill-voiced woman is terrible. She should not shout her orders to the servants down the stairs, nor call to any one who may be in another part of the house. This shouting and raising of the voice spoils the tone and quality of the voice and tends to make it harsh. A pretty voice is a powerful attraction in a woman and she who would add to her charms a wondrous fascination should cultivate a voice "ever soft, gentle and low."

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—A little nine-year-old Portia appeared before Judge Newcomer at the Harrison street court and in less than five minutes told her childlike plea had swayed the opinion of the court, had brushed away all the arguments of the prosecuting attorney, and won her father's freedom, notwithstanding the fact that he had pleaded guilty.

Edward Wells, 45 years old, 1727 Indiana avenue, admitted the theft of three brass journals from the Illinois Central Railroad.

"I had to do something to buy food for my family, your honor," he said. "I knew it was wrong, and I am here to take my punishment. I have been out of work for some time and my wife is ill."

Judge Newcomer did not appear moved by the story.

SENTENCE HALTED BY CHILD.

Here the judge was interrupted by a childish voice. He stopped, looked down over his desk at the face of the tiny girl.

"Mr. Judge," she said, "that man you are saying those things about is my papa. Please don't send him to jail. I know he will never steal again. My name is Essie, Mr. Judge, and I am 9 years old."

The child moved up another step to her father's side and grasped his hand, encouraged by the attention accorded her.

"I will make that promise for him," she went on. "After this I will go with him and help him hunt work. I will keep him from getting discouraged and will keep him from being tempted to steal.

"Mr. Judge, I know you wouldn't send him to jail if you knew how poor we are. My mamma is sick at home. We only live in a basement. I have a little sister at home, too, and I was the only one who could care for her."

COURT GRANTS GIRL'S PLEA.

When the child stopped talking one could hear a pin drop in the court room.

The judge's eyes grew moist. The big hall filled with eyes and turned his back to the court.

"Essie, you have made one of the most eloquent arguments I ever heard," said Judge Newcomer, breaking the silence. "If I let your papa go this time do you think you can keep him from ever stealing again? I will grant your plea. I will turn him over to your keeping."

"Thank you, Judge," returned the child, who had not lost her composure. "I will go home with him. I will teach him how wrong it is to steal. You never will steal again, will you, papa?"

The big, rough-looking defendant took the child in his arms and burst into tears. Still holding her he burst out thanks to the judge and left the court room, the child clinging to his neck.

WOMAN Audubon Society Member Teaches Care and Uses of BIRDS to FARMERS

When the schools opened in the fall she began her work with the school children and teachers interested in nature study and has been the means of greatly increasing the list of teachers who are using the Audubon literature in the schools. Bird club is being organized in the public schools by the Audubon societies. The systematic study of birds is made part of the curriculum of some schools. In Indiana the schools recognize the usefulness of the Audubon work to such an extent that the annual meeting is desired by many of the cities of the State. All available bird speakers are pressed into service and bird talks are given in every school in the place.

Mrs. Charles W. Lord, president of the Audubon Society, both by her charming talks and pen, has shared with others the delight that her bird club members have contributed to her own life. The chief aim of this society is to enlist the co-operation of the children.

Madame Nordica Tells How to Make a Program

The woman's Home Companion has begun a series of articles devoted to the best music of living composers. In the January article Madame Lillian Nordica writes, in regard to the making of a program, "In making a program, the first thing of importance to be considered, after a careful selection of the numbers, is the order of their arrangement. The grave, the gay, the serious, the joyous, should always be placed in contrast, for continuity of mood is not to be desired, nor is the effect of even the best songs.

"For instance, one or two lighter songs should be followed by brighter and more joyous ones, incidentally excluding any that suggest numbers in the same time—two-four or three-four, as the case may be—do not follow each other, or that tends only to monotony, the very thing we desire to avoid. It is well to begin a recital with something along simple lines, and of a character a whole should gradually increase in brilliancy as it progresses, introducing the more effective numbers toward the close. To follow any other course would produce an anti-climax."

SECRET OF GOOD LOOKS IS THE HAT YOU WEAR

Mlle. Sorel, Leader in Parisian Fashion, Tells Story of Her Success

An American girl went to Paris recently to interview Mlle. Sorel, who holds the palm for being the best dressed woman in Paris. Mlle. Sorel is beautiful but one notices, more than all her beauty, the exquisite manner in which she dresses. She knows how to gown herself so as to bring out her charms to the utmost.

"Please tell me," said the interviewer, "the secret of your good looks. How is it that you are called the best dressed woman in Paris? Others wear quite as elegant gowns, but none seem to have your style."

Mlle. Sorel smiled, touched the brim of her white picture hat, and said:

"My answer is here. It is because I wear a hat. The hat I consider absolutely necessary to a woman's good appearance. The woman who takes off her hat makes a great mistake.

CHILD PORTIA'S PLEA IN COURT SAVES FATHER

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—A little nine-year-old Portia appeared before Judge Newcomer at the Harrison street court and in less than five minutes told her childlike plea had swayed the opinion of the court, had brushed away all the arguments of the prosecuting attorney, and won her father's freedom, notwithstanding the fact that he had pleaded guilty.

Judge Newcomer did not appear moved by the story.

SENTENCE HALTED BY CHILD.

Here the judge was interrupted by a childish voice. He stopped, looked down

"Mr. Judge," she said, "that man you are saying those things about is my papa. Please don't send him to jail. I know he will never steal again. My name is Essie, Mr. Judge, and I am 9 years old."

"Mr. Judge, I know you wouldn't send him to jail if you knew how poor we are. My mamma is sick at home. We only live in a basement. I have a little sister at home, too, and I was the only one who could care for her."

COURT GRANTS GIRL'S PLEA.

When the child stopped talking one could hear a pin drop in the court room.

The judge's eyes grew moist. The big hall filled with eyes and turned his back to the court.

"Essie, you have made one of the most eloquent arguments I ever heard," said Judge Newcomer, breaking the silence. "If I let your papa go this time do you think you can keep him from ever stealing again? I will grant your plea. I will turn him over to your keeping."

The woman who wants to put her hat on straight.

If the hat is a tilted one, and most hats are tilted these days, be sure that the tilt is arranged becomingly. It is dreadfully alluring to wear a hat that shades one eye and one cheek. It is distractingly provoking and wonderfully interesting. The hat that just partially shades the face is the one that brings out a woman's beauty best.

HATS THAT MAKE WOMEN LOOK OLD.

There are women who dare to wear a toque. But they are brave women, indeed. A toque makes a woman look fully her age, and in most cases it adds a year or two to her looks. It is the hat of the white-haired woman of 70, but seldom the hat of the chic young woman of 20, for the toque is trying.

A hat that turns up smartly in front may be saucy, but it is unbecoming. It is a hat that puts a woman's teachers to the full test, and it forces her to admit every year of her age.

The woman who wears a hat should not forget that she also wears hair. And this year her hair plays an important part in the wearing of the headgear.

With the picture hats a handful of little curls is absolutely necessary. These can be bought in distracting little bunches for little money. They are attached to the hat just under the side of the brim. The picture hat is almost always lifted at one side, and it is at the lifted side that the little curls are seen bobbing this way and that and looking surprisingly youthful.

HOW TO PUT ON YOUR HAIR.

The fancy for pinning the hair upon the hat is one that should be studied by the woman who wants to be beautiful. "Lifting the hair upon the hat is almost always becoming. It adds something to both the hat and the hair, and in the fashionable millinery establishments they insist upon treating your hair in this manner.

"My hats always are suited to my face, which is long and classic. I like the big picture hat, drooping at one side, with feathers to set it off, and I wear this style of hat almost universally.

"The most becoming hat is the one that matches the complexion while the trimmings match the eyes. A cream colored hat with blue plumes was worn by a blonde with blue eyes. Or one can wear a hat that is all black, with a single pink rose to bring out the pink of the skin.

"It is most effective. But to get a hat without regard for one's complexion, eyes, or color is a great mistake.

"Brown is a picture color for the woman who can wear it. But there is a milliner in Paris who will not make a brown hat for a woman of more than 40. 'It makes you yellow,' he says, quite candidly; to his customer. And she, if she is a woman of discretion, will listen to his advice. 'Brown is for the pink-skinned woman,' he says, 'and even she should add a pink rose or a plumage feather to the pink.'

"The hat should be broader than the face.

"It should be deep enough to shade the eyes and to set off the coiffure and the neck and it should be light

Shortening Sources
Lard is made from hog-fat; its origin is the pig-sty. It makes food greasy, indigestible and dangerous.
Cottolene comes from the cotton fields of the Sunny South. Its basis is the purest refined cotton-seed oil. It is pure, healthful, and makes digestible, nourishing food. It is Nature's gift from the Sunny South, and is the best frying and shortening medium possible to manufacture.
Once get in the habit of using Cottolene, and you will never let lard enter your kitchen again.

DON'T SUFFER ALL WINTER

Read This Evidence and Begin Today to Cure Yourself
With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Scleritis is neuritis of the sclerotic membrane. Its origin is generally rheumatic and is the direct result of taking cold. For this reason the disease is commonly known as "scleritis rheumaticus."

Absolute rest is the best aid to proper medical treatment. Rest and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure most cases. Mrs. Mary M. E. of No. 3042 West Clinton street, Elmhurst, N. Y., suffered for nearly a year and during a great part of that time her symptoms were constantly increasing in severity, although she was under the care of a doctor and a nurse. "I had very weak heart action," she says, "and I believe that my kidneys became affected. There were terrible pains in my back and limbs and my feet and ankles were swollen. I had night sweats, and sometimes a cold numbness in my limbs."

"My trouble was scleritis rheumaticus complicated with grip and at times I could not raise my foot two inches from the floor. The rheumatism grew gradually worse as my system was weakened by the poison the grip had left in my body. About this time a friend of mine who lives in Ohio and recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I tried them and was soon relieved. In all I took six boxes and was cured. The remarkable thing I noticed about the pills was that they began to give me strength almost as soon as I began the treatment. I shall be glad to have you publish this and I hope the pills will be a blessing to others as they were to me."

Scleritis is stubborn in resisting treatment and the patient frequently suffers for years. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not simply relieve pain but they cure diseases caused by depleted or vitiated blood. They actually make new blood and save therefore a direct and powerful curative effect on such diseases as rheumatism, neuritis, general debility, after-effects of the grip, neuritis, partial paralysis, etc. Virtue dwells and comfort abides.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50 by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

FALLS DOWNSTAIRS; BREAKS THIGH BONE

Mrs. Smith who has kept a rooming-house at 410 First street for many years, fell down the stairs yesterday and sustained an injury which will cripple her for life. Her thigh bone was broken above the knee. She was taken to the Providence Hospital.

COLTON SECURITIES MYSTERY FULLY SOLVED

Barnett's Attorney Says Bonds Were Sold by Brokers for Robertson.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—The Colton securities mystery has been solved, according to the statement of a discovery made by Oscar Cooper, attorney for W. J. Barnett, the accused banker, and it has been found, it is said, that the securities were handled and sold by E. F. Hutton and Company, brokers at 490 California street, for J. D. Robertson at the direction of J. D. Robertson.

Cooper yesterday visited the office of the brokerage firm and inspected its books. After the investigation he declared that his inspection was very satisfactory to him and his client. He has always said Barnett knows nothing of the disappearance of the brokerage firm show that bonds for the sum of $105,000 were sold for the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company during the months of May and July of the present year. The $105,000 in Western Pacific bonds held by the bank were sold direct in New York.

The broker's firm's account showed the sale of bonds identical with those which had been deposited with the bank by the Colton estate. Only the Western Pacific bonds valued at $105,000, were missing and as the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company handled the bonds of the Gould line it could sell them through its New York agency. The principal bond items, as shown by the bank's account with the brokerage firm, were sold as follows:

Par value
May 11-16 bonds Northern Pacific $15,000
May 12-16 bonds Northern Pacific 10,000
May 12-16 bonds Chesapeake and Ohio railroad 25,000
May 31-10 bonds Atchafalpa, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad 10,000
May 31-10 bonds Baltimore and Ohio railroad 10,000
May 31-10 bonds Great Northern railroad 10,000
May 31-10 bonds Norfolk and Western railroad 10,000
July 1-5 bonds Chesapeake and Ohio railroad 5,000
This gives a total of $85,000, and to this must be added the $20,000 received from the sale of four bonds of the Newport News ship building and dry dock company and five bonds of the Contra Costa Water Company, making a total of $105,000. The 100 Western Pacific bonds valued at $100,000, being the total to $205,000, the amount which J. D. Robertson and Walter J. Barnett are charged with having embezzled. The fact that these bonds were turned over to the brokerage firm of J. D. Robertson the fugitive official of the bank, will be brought to the attention of the grand jury. The account carried with the brokerage house by the bank included 175 shares of Denver and Rio Grande common stock, which were sold before the bond transaction. This stock sold at $1 and brought $175.

Deposit Box of Late Otway Sadler Had Not One Scrap of Paper

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—The safe deposit box of the late T. Otway Sadler, an official of the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company, who killed himself, was opened yesterday at the Western National Bank, but contrary to expectations, no valuables or money were found deposited in it. The key to the box was found among Sadler's effects by a deputy of the public administrator, Joseph A. Stulz, ex-public administrator, accompanied by his chief deputy, J. M. Newbert, took in the key to the bank yesterday, and in their presence Captain J. C. Sharp, an official of the bank, opened the box. It contained not even a scrap of paper.

Ordera Defunct Bank To Pay Estate Money to Public Administrator

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—Orders were obtained by Joseph A. Stulz and M. J. Hynes, ex-public administrator, yesterday from Judge Graham, directing the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company to pay them the moneys belonging to various estates deposited by them. Stulz has a title more than $100,000 belonging to estates of which he is administrator in trust with the institution, and Hynes has about $87,000.

These deposits are secured by a mortgage over the property of the Safe Deposit Company at California and Montgomery streets. It is necessary to make a demand for the money before suit can be begun, and the law requires consent by a judge to the making of such demand. This action is a preliminary to the foreclosure suit which the officials will bring against the bank.

Grand Jury May Find More Indictments in Trust Company Inquiry

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—The Grand Jury continued its investigation of the affairs of the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company today and it is thought that more indictments will be found among them one against J. D.

QUICK ACTION

Whisky and glycerine, mixed with Virgin Oil of Pine, is said to break up a cold in 24 hours and cure any cough that is curable. Get from your druggist one 1/4-ounce vial of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure and two ounces of glycerine. Mix these thoroughly with a half pint of good whisky and take a teaspoonful every four hours. It has been found that five ounces of tincture of Cinchona compound can be used in place of whisky with the same result. Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure is put up only by the Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, O., in half-ounce vials, each vial securely sealed in a round wooden case. Be sure to get the genuine.

Robertson, the fugitive assistant cashier of the institution, it is said.

Mortimer Fleischacker, banker and paper manufacturer, was one of the witnesses called. Fleischacker underwrote bonds for the Central Traction Company, in which Western was interested. Letters will be introduced in evidence which were written by Barnett to Fleischacker, and in these epistles President Ripley of the Santa Fe was referred to as "senate."

Another important witness called was E. M. Bradford, who was designated as "Cheese" in the famous Brown-Bainett letters. "Cheese" will explain to the Grand Jury how he happened to negotiate loans from the bank amounting to $491,000.

W. B. Maynard, the manager of the Berkeley Chemical Company, one of the "Treadwell" enterprises, and F. M. Willis, Barnett's private secretary, was also called. George Klink, the expert accountant, who has been at work on the books, also was summoned.

CHECK PASSER HAD NO INTENT TO DEFRAUD

M. C. Greenwald, recently from Chicago, who was arrested on a charge of passing a worthless check for $250 on Frank Howard, a local cigar dealer, was released this morning after a preliminary examination, it having been shown to the satisfaction of the court that Greenwald had inadvertently overdrawn his account and had not intended to defraud at the time the check was cashed by Howard.

FOOTPADS ATTEMPT TO HALT AN ENGINEER

William Runner, an engineer on the Alameda local train, reported at police headquarters this morning that an attempt had been made to hold him up last night at the east end of the Eighth-street bridge while he was on his bicycle on his way to the East Oakland railroad yards. The footpad carried no weapon, and when he called on Runner to halt the engineer turned on more steam and soon peddled his way to safety.

CLUB INDORSES GREATER OAKLAND

Officers of Swedish-American Republican Body at Banquet Discuss Politics.

The members of the Swedish-American Republican Club of Alameda county sat down to a sumptuous repast last Tuesday night at the club's headquarters, Odd Fellows' Hall, Eleventh and Franklin streets. It was the annual election of officers, and their installation called forth a big outpouring of the stalwart sons of northern Europe.

The club carries on its roll 600 Swedish-born voters and has been in existence for sixteen years. The retiring president, C. T. Peterson, as well as the elected president, K. E. Hanson, and Secretary R. Dyberg of Fruitvale, as well as the other officers, made congratulatory speeches, therein setting forth the Swedish-American voters' principles in politics in business and home life. "Honesty, rigid adherence to what is right, and firm opposition to what is wrong in the political and business life of our country today."

The club most emphatically advocated the formation of a city and county of Oakland, thus insuring a "Greater Oakland" on practical lines.

The club meets the first Tuesday in every month, and often during campaigns.

The officers are: President, Karl E. Hanson; vice-president, E. J. Jordan; recording secretary, Richard Dyberg; financial secretary, P. Seaborg; treasurer, W. Gustafson; executive and revising committee, above officers and C. T. Peterson, C. J. Larson, Andrew Anderson and Magnus Freeman; sergeant at arms, John Gustafson.

LAFAYETTE SCHOOL TO STAGE COMEDY DRAMA

The graduating class of the Lafayette school will present tonight at Alameda Hall Market street, near Twelfth, a three-act comedy-drama, "Lost-A Bull Dog." The play is under the personal stage direction of Paul D. Smith, who has been producing members of the cast for the past month. The production is staged through the permission of Howard Fenwick, the author. The ability of some of the youthful thespians has been watched for some time by friends with keen interest, and it is expected that the showing tonight will be an agreeable surprise as the parts have been thoroughly learned and each member is in tip-top shape.

The cast is as follows: Mr. Weatherhead, Fred Thomas, Col. Currie, Arnold Luckenbach, Tallian Davenport, Gertrude Greer, Mrs. Weatherhead, Beulah Allen, Mr. Travers, Martin Benninger, Tacks (the gardener) John Tolson; Du Sple, a Frenchman, Paul Smith.

BANKERS LOAN ON REAL ESTATE

Five Deeds of Trust Amounting to Over $72,000 Are Recorded.

That Oakland bankers are again willing to loan money on Oakland real estate was shown by five deeds of trust recorded today to Thomas Crellin, president of the Central Bank and W. D. Palmanteer, vice-president of the same bank.

These deeds of trust are given to secure loans on Oakland real estate. One was given by Robert Paul of property on Thirteenth street near Clay for $42,500; another by J. H. Danwell of property on Eleventh street near Webster for $10,000, another by Louis and Doris Berckovich of property at Bush and Seventh street for $10,000; another by Richard J. Montgomery of property on Forty-third street near Telegraph avenue, $2,892, and the last by Ellen Montgomery of property on Thirty-ninth street near Grove for $760. (These deeds of trust were recorded this afternoon.)

Philip Astley about 1770 originated the modern circus in England.

ARTIFICIAL DIGESTION

A noted German scientist has produced a new liquid by means of which the digestion of food can be accomplished artificially. This liquid is known to physicians and druggists as Catarrh Compound.

A prominent local physician when asked regarding this new product, stated that it has proven to be the most effective remedy known to the science for the cure of dyspepsia and ailments of the digestive organs. He also gave the formula, in which it is prescribed, as follows: "One ounce Catarrh Compound, two ounces Essence of Peppermint, three ounces Syrup of Ginger." To be used in doses of one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bedtime.

These ingredients can be obtained at any well-stocked drug store, and mixture made at home. By its use digestion is accomplished without the stomach's aid, so this much overworked organ obtains needed rest, and will in this way soon recover its normal condition even when there has been dyspepsia in the worst form.

This mixture is pleasant to take and is said to show good results after the first few doses.

TWO NEW COMPANIES FORM CORPORATIONS

The following new companies filed their articles of incorporation today: Ansel Market Company, with a capital stock of $5000, and John L. P. Park and Eugene Ansel as directors; C. D. Smith & Company, with a capital stock of $25,000, and C. D. Smith, Catherine A. Smith and O. L. Gray as directors.

JUMPS ON STAGE; LICKS VILLAIN

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 10.—Purloined over the treatment accorded by the villain to the heroine, in a play at a local theater last night, George Munroe jumped on the stage and after driving the actor, who played the part of the villain off the stage, seized the heroine in his arms and declared that he would defend her.

Stage hands attempted to drive Munroe from the stage but he seized a fire axe and refused to leave until he was overpowered by six police-men.

RESIDENCE BURNS OCCUPANTS AWAY

Home of Mrs. Hodgson in Berkeley Takes Fire in Mysterious Manner.

BERKELEY, Jan. 10.—Neighbors were amazed yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock to see smoke issuing from the windows of the home of Mrs. R. M. Hodgson, 234 Carlton street, near Dana. Breaking into the front door, they found the house filled with smoke and flames, but no signs of life.

About that time Mrs. C. C. Henlon, daughter of Mrs. Hodgson, who, with her family occupies the home on Carlton street, appeared on the scene. She had been down town all afternoon and no one had been in the house. The neighbors were even then at the telephone summoning the fire department.

Mrs. Henlon ran upstairs in the direction in which the fire seemed to be raging and found the flames rapidly licking up the bedclothing in her bedroom. Snatching off the burning coverlets and mattress at the risk of her life, she flung them out of the window. Then with the assistance of the neighbors she beat out the fire, which had caught in the carpet and was rapidly consuming the lace window curtains and hangings of the room. By the time the fire department arrived the fire was all out.

Mrs. Henlon stated that the fire must have originated from an electric light globe, which she always kept suspended over her pillow. But the family and electricians are at a loss to explain how it could ignite a fire.

POISONS HIMSELF TWICE TO MAKE SURE

BUSINESS MAN TAKES ACID; TURNS ON GAS AND DIES

Closes Door to Save His Servant's Life

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—Adam Heunish, vice-president of the Illinois-Pacific Glass Company, and one of the most prominent business men in San Francisco, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid early this morning. Despondency, caused by business troubles, is given as the reason. Heunish had been ill for about three weeks from nervous prostration caused by mental worry over business. Dr. Bruce, his physician, and a life long friend, had been in close attendance upon him for the past two weeks. Last night he called to see his patient about 10 o'clock as he seemed to be worse than usual, and the doctor feared that an attack of neurasthenia was coming on. He remained with Heunish about half an hour, during which time he put his patient to bed and saw that he was comfortable for the night. A Japanese attendant, who has been a servant in the family for twenty years, slept in an adjoining room so as to be near Heunish. At an early hour this morning the sick man arose and closed the door between the two rooms. The Japanese attendant was horrified to find his patient up. Heunish passed the matter off by saying that he was unable to sleep because of the heavy breathing of the Japanese, and hence wished to close the door.

GAS JETS OPEN.
About 6 o'clock this morning the attendant arose and immediately detected the odor of gas. Rushing into Heunish's room, he found him lying on his bed with an empty glass, which had contained the carbolic acid, by his side and the three gas jets wide open.

Dr. Bruce was hastily summoned from his house next door and worked over his friend and patient for half an hour only to have him die in his arms.

The wife of the deceased merchant was aroused by the commotion in the house, and was present at the end. She is prostrated by the shock and fear is entertained for her life.

Albert Heunish, the son, who has charge of the business of the Illinois-Pacific Glass Company in the North, with headquarters in Seattle, had been here up to two days ago when he returned to his field. The daughter, Genevieve, is with her mother doing all she can to comfort her in her bereavement.

Adam Heunish was 49 years of age and was known and looked up to in the business community as an honest, enterprising and benevolent citizen. He built up the Illinois-Pacific Glass Company, for many years known as Abraham-Heunish & Company, from a small beginning to the largest and best equipped plant west of the Mississippi river.

Some years ago on Thanksgiving Day, when the roof of the glass works at Sixteenth and Folsom streets caved in during the playing of the intercollegiate football game, and many persons were hurled to their death in the burning furnace of the glass company, Heunish did all in his power for the unfortunate victims and their families, and the affair was the one dark spot in his commercial life.

As to just what business troubles could have caused him to take his own life, no one is able to say. Manager Rosenstein, when interviewed this morning, refused to admit that the business was other than in the very best possible condition. If indeed Heunish was worrying over some business trouble, Rosenstein professed to be unable to state what it is.

Saturday is the last day of the 25 per cent discount shoe sale at Walden's, South Berkeley.

TRIES TO GAIN LOVE BY AN ATTEMPT ON HER LIFE

Girl Wanted to Bluff Affinity—Divorced Wife Takes Morphine to End All, but is Saved.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—Mrs. Jennie Gordon, of 30 Sycamore street, a pretty young woman, who a short time ago was divorced from her husband, attempted to commit suicide at 2 o'clock this morning by taking morphine. She was rushed to the Central Emergency Hospital where Dr. Topham succeeded in saving her life.

The woman would ascribe no reason for her deed, saying that she was not despondent or disappointed over any love affair.

"I just wanted to die," said Mrs. Gordon this morning. "There is no reason to give."

A hurry call was sent to the Central Emergency Hospital at 2:30 this morning for the ambulance from the Regal House, Third and Folsom streets. The ambulance, in charge of Steward Macarte, made the long run, and brought Stella Hunter to the hospital. She said that she had taken poison because her lover had gone back on her, and the doctor proceeded to administer an antidote.

Further investigation revealed the fact that the young woman was bluffing, and that she had taken nothing at all. It developed later that she was merely trying to work upon the feelings of her lover, of whom she is said to be insanely jealous.

JAPANESE ADMIRAL IS DISMISSED IN DEGREE

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 10.—Advice by the Art. Maru state that Admiral Kusunoki, of the Japanese navy, who commanded the Japanese navy in the war with China, has been dismissed from the service because of scandal, which involved him with the wife of a workman at Yokohama naval yards.

Henry M. Daehill, of St. Louis, the American doctor, charged with shooting a Chinese soldier on the Tibetan border, has been acquitted in the American court at Shanghai.

OAKLAND CHAPTER OF R. A. M. HAS INSTALLATION

Impressive Ceremony is Followed by Banquet and Feast of Speeches.

Oakland Chapter of Royal Arch Masons held its annual installation of officers in Masonic Temple on Wednesday evening, at which time a large number of the craft were present.

The impressive ceremony of installation was well exemplified by Chas. P. MacLafferty as installing officer, and Dr. Arthur T. Flory as master of ceremonies.

Following are the names of the new officers for 1908:

High priest, Edward Charles Bridgman; king, Wallace Covert Price; scribe, Herbert Lincoln Breed; treasurer, Frank Howard Brooks; secretary, George Henry Smith; chaplain, Rev. N. Saunders; captain of the host, Chester Cooper; Borton; principal sojourner, Magnus Peter Hill; royal arch captain, Charles Poulter; master of the third veil, William Samuel MacMurtry; master of the second veil, Frederick William Lauffer; master of the first veil, Alexander Simpson Kelly; sentinel, Robert Griffith Evans.

The regulation past high priest's jewel was fittingly presented to the retiring officer by companion F. H. E. O'Donnell. During the evening Dr. A. S. Kelly and F. W. Lauffer, on behalf of the thirty-one initiates of 1907, in neat speeches, presented retiring high priest Chas. P. MacLafferty with a Knights Templar watch chain and a beautiful silver set, appropriately inscribed.

Following this John W. Gault surprised Treasurer F. H. Brooks by presenting him, on behalf of the chapter with a handsome Morris chair. Treasurer Brooks is now serving the chapter for the fourth year.

A banquet was participated in and the following responded to toasts: High Priest E. C. Bridgman acting as toastmaster; Hon. W. J. Harris, "Masonic Growth"; Hon. W. J. Harris, "Our Companions on the Sea"; Hon. Geo. C. Pardee, "Our President."

A FUNNY LETTER.

A millionaire took a letter from his pocket, a letter written on thin, almost transparent paper.

"This is from a Parisian hotelkeeper," he said, "who wants my son to board with him while studying at the Reaux Arts Academy in the Seine. It's a funny letter. Listen."

"Sir—Last month I had presented to you a project of location with the breakfast and dinner, and the little breakfast-morning for the amount of $140 by each month."

"At that you must add, for the perfect comfortable in our hotel, like I had promised that before."

"At first a waiter interested specially at your style."

"Afterwards the lighting with the gas, or with the composition candle, the gas arrangements should be changed."

"The thing with the wood or coal, many electric pipes divers that shall communicate with the kitchen."

"In this manner you shall have all the accommodations of the life of Paris."

"I give the liberty or franchise to tell you that at our ordinary at each restaurant you shall find many young gentlemen which speak the most pure French."

"This is, in my opinion, very favorable."

"In our hotel you shall have all the best care in the less particular."

"I inform you of all things because I have seen it together the good manners that have marked proverbial our urbanity and elegance French."

"I repeat you, than our most large desire is for your life very agreeable about us."—New York Herald.

FIREPROOFED BY WATER.

"Did you ever see wood that wouldn't burn?" said the sailor.

"Oh, yes. There's briar, pipe briar, you know, and there's ironwood, and there's—"

"But," the sailor interrupted impatiently.

"No, no," he said. "I mean ordinary wood, pine, this here."

"And he drew from his pocket a piece of ancient-looking pine. He applied several matches to it, and, as he had predicted the flame would not consume, but only blackened it a little."

"This piece of pine," he said, "has a strange story. It was fireproofed by water. It was part of a whaleboat in the late '40s, and when, when a harpoon was stuck into a big whale, the line fouled, the men all jumped for their lives, and the whale made a mad plunge downward, dragging the boat down behind it. Down, down it went, they thought it would never come up again. It made a lot of these terrible plunges and dives, then it dashed off faster than a Lusitania; but it died in the end, and the whale's men got it, and they got back their boat, too."

"The wood of the boat was all like this here, hard as iron. What had hardened it was the pressure of the water. Scientific codgers said the whale must have carried the boat down half a mile or more to change the fiber of the wood like that."—N. Y. Sun.

A lanky countryman from the mines came into the Argus office.

"My old kum's dead, and I should like a bit of poetry, or sumthin' put in the paper about him."

"All right," says the clerk, "hand it over."

"Can't you fix sumthin' up for me?" asks the miner. "He was a right good chap."

"O, yes," replies the clerk, "we'll manage that for you, our charge for 'In Memoriam' notices is sixpence an inch."

"O, thunder!" exclaims the mourner. "I can't stand that!"

SACRED CATTLE IN TEXAS.

The herd of Burmese sacred cattle which "Tom" O'Connor, a prominent stockman of this region, imported direct from India about two years ago, has done so well that these cattle will soon be found upon many of the ranches of Southwest Texas. They were brought to Texas with the special idea that they could be used to advantage in improving the breeds of the native cattle. A. F. Jordan of Pierce, Tex., and other representative cattlemen of the Gulf Coast region, made a personal investigation of the Burmese sacred cattle in India before the experiment of bringing them over here was tried.

A shipment of the odd-looking animals was brought over, and when they were unloaded at the ranch of Mr. O'Connor near here, they attracted the widest attention among cattlemen. They are still the objects of much curiosity, and cattlemen come long distances to see them and to make personal inquiry as to the success of the experiment.

Mr. O'Connor is more than satisfied with his efforts at raising the Burmese sacred cattle. They seem to be particularly well suited to the Texas coast region, and they have proved much better than the average stock imported from other States or even from the remote parts of Texas.

It is said to have been fully demonstrated that these cattle are immune from the "tick" fever. This fact is of itself a point of great importance, to recommend the ranch of Mr. O'Connor upon all of the ranches where the peculiar malady is encountered. The claim is made that not only are the native Burmese cattle immune from this fever, but that they transmit the immunity to their offspring, and that it is found in their blood as well as in the thorough-breds.

There is a hardness about the Burmese sacred cattle that is said to fit them peculiarly for range life. It is believed that they will be able to withstand the severest kind of weather without serious losses, and that they are well fitted for the ranches of the more northern portion of the State, and even of Oklahoma and Kansas. The terrible heat of summer and the various insect pests of the Gulf Coast region do not seem to affect them adversely. Their skins are tough and are apparently impervious to all insect pests, such as ticks, mosquitoes and flies.

As a beef animal the claim is made that the Burmese are the equal of any of the breeds of cattle commonly found upon the ranches. They fatten easily, and their flesh is particularly well flavored. When crossed with other breeds the mixture is an improved animal both as to standard of weight and other important qualities. It is claimed.

The Burmese cattle are docile and domestic by nature. Their chief characteristic in the matter of personal appearance is a large hump which is situated just above their shoulder, shades upon the front part of their backs—Gould, Tex., Correspondence New York

THE PIGTAIL'S VALUE.

The mandarin twisted the end of his long pigtail, which flowed like a thin black snake across the splendor of his gold brocade coat.

"Have you never wondered why we Chinese of the big school hold our queues in such reverence?" he said.

"Have you never wondered why the Chinaman who loses his queue loses his reputation also?"

"Well, the answer is that all the little Chinese children are taught by their nurses that when a good Chinaman dies, God lifts him up to heaven by the pigtail. It is necessary therefore that every Chinaman's pigtail be

RHEUMATISM CAN NOT BE RUBBED AWAY

Rubbing with liniments, blistering the affected parts, the application of plasters, and other means of external treatment, are usually helpful in relieving the pains and aches of Rheumatism, but such remedies do not reach the CAUSE of the disease, and are therefore in no sense curative. Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid in the blood, brought about by indigestion, poor bowel action, weak kidneys, and a general sluggish condition of the system. The circulation deposits this irritating poison in the different muscles, nerves, tissues and joints of the body, and soon the painful symptoms of Rheumatism are produced. The pains at first may be wandering and slight; but as the blood becomes more fully saturated with the uric acid poison, the disease grows worse and after awhile gets to be chronic. The slight, wandering pains now become sharp and cutting at the least exposure to dampness or night air, or any constitutional irregularity, the bones ache, the muscles are not as free in action as before, and where the acid poison is allowed to remain in the blood the joints often become so clogged with corrosive substances that they are left permanently stiff and useless. Rheumatism can never be rubbed away, nor can it be conquered and driven from the system until the acid-laden blood has been cleansed and purified. No other medicine does this so effectively as S. S. S. It dissolves and removes the impurities and sends a stream of rich, strong blood to the affected parts, which soothes the irritated nerves, inflamed muscles and flesh, and the sufferer obtains relief that is permanent because the real cause of the disease has been removed. Special book on Rheumatism and any medical advice desired free.

PROMINENT PHYSICIANS

Endorse Our Cod Liver Preparation, Vinol

Many of the most eminent physicians are now prescribing Vinol as the most satisfactory cod liver preparation. Thus it is fast superseding other forms of cod liver oil and emulsions.

W. N. Rand M. D. of Evans Mills, N. Y. writes: From personal experience I am able to appreciate the value of your cod liver preparation. Vinol I have used it and have found it largely during the past eighteen months and I want to say that Vinol is all that you claim for it and more.

Dr. Benedict of Thomaston, Ga. a physician, writes: In the South I have used Vinol in my family and in my general practice with most excellent results for bronchial and pulmonary troubles and to create strength.

Another physician writes: I am satisfied that Vinol is the most powerful life giving and strength creating power from the medicinal curative elements found in the cod's liver. It is the most reliable and powerful tonic and vitality for old people, weak women and delicate children on whom it has ever been used.

The reason that Vinol has such remarkable curative and strength creating power is because it is made by a scientific process from fresh cod livers, combining with potentia of iron (which is a needed constituent for the blood) all the medicinal building and body building elements of cod liver oil but no oil.

We ask every person in Oakland who is in need of such a medicine to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money if it fails to give satisfaction. The Owl Drug Co., Oakland, Cal.

PERSONAL RECOLLECTIONS

I can personally recall many incidents of your kindly nature and sympathy during my school days—how your system of teaching under the care of the Christian brothers and the sisters enabled the students to master their studies and to have example teach us in the moral and virtues of religion. It is through your irrefragable persistence that our schools have reached the standard of excellence which crowns them today.

Our reverend father have your labors been confined to the establishment and development of the Catholic faith in this parish and to the founding and spreading of the schools of the spirit and the world's wants of your own flock.

On all questions tending to the betterment of the community to the upbuilding of civic purity in politics and all great matters of life and state your eminent knowledge has been sought, your broad influence solicited and your powerful oratory has been employed to teach honesty and probity to the citizens of this great country.

SEES CATHEDRAL AND BISHOP
So beloved pastor, well may we be happy to have you with us again. Proud do we feel to know that after a sojourn of nine months in the land of your birth the home of your childhood, blood and early childhood where the relations and friends of former years are so dear to you where the air and scenes are like a fountain of love to your heart you are once more amongst us. After your visit and conference with the Holy Father the Pope you come back to us that we may heal your wounded heart caused by parting from those you honored in memory with the love and devotion of every member of your parish.

We are glad to see you returned with renewed vigor and health to take up the burden of faith in this distant land. We may behold St. Patrick's Cathedral on this site with Bishop McNally in charge. We hope and pray that you may be spared for years to come to enjoy the reward and recognition in comfort and happiness.

PRESENTATION IS MADE
At the close of the address there was a burst of applause. A table was then rolled upon the stage containing a gift with which the people of the parish recognized the return of their respected pastor.

On this table were a beautiful missal, a gold chalice, a set of altar cruets of cut glass trimmed with silver, a silver censer and a small silver box technically known as a boat, which is used for holding the incense before it is placed in the censer to be used in the solemn ceremonial of the church. All of these the speaker asked the pastor to accept as tokens of the esteem in which the latter was held by his people.

Father McNally spoke feelingly of the regard he had for the members of his flock and told how he appreciated the gift which had been bestowed upon him. He said the articles would always be used in the services of the church and that he would never use them in the celebration of the mass that he would not recall the kindness of his people and the reverence of his flock.

member them in the prayers which he would offer to the Most High.

Father McNally also spoke of the pleasure and benefit he derived in his trip abroad and spoke hopefully of the future of Ireland in agricultural and industrial lines these advancements which among other things include the ownership of the land by the people of the country meant a preparation for the establishment of home rule for Ireland.

At the close of the speech of Father McNally there was an informal reception in which there was a very pleasant reunion between the pastor and the members of his flock.

VALUABLE JEWELS ARE FOUND BY POLICE.

Woman Shopper Mislays Hundreds Worth of Diamonds and Pearls.

Detectives Holland and T. J. Flynn last night recovered $1500 worth of diamonds and pearls and two $100 bills which had been reported lost by Mrs. P. W. Magill of 31 Shattuck avenue. They have been returned to the owner.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Magill was in the Washington store, Thirteenth and Washington streets on a shopping tour. Upon her return home she discovered the loss of a solitaire diamond ring valued at $1000, an unset pearl worth $500 and the $700 in bills. The police were at once notified and the detectives hunting up the manager of the store had him open the store which had been closed for a day and the missing jewels were found. They were found in a lace handkerchief just as Mrs. Magill had left them on a counter.

WIFE OBJECTS TO 10-CENT INCOME

Given Divorce Because Husband Failed to Supply "Square" Meals

Ten cents a week with which to buy food was the allowance given by Frank Christensen of Alameda to his wife. Annie, according to the testimony given in a fight in the trial, the divorce suit resulted today in her getting a final decree of divorce. Judge Lillworth ruled that this was not proper support for a wife and child and granted the divorce on the ground of a habitual neglect.

Christensen and his wife were married in 1901. They lived together for more than two years and during this time Mrs. Christensen's husband did not have proper food and clothing for the kind she did. Often at night she was compelled to go to the home of her parents to get a square meal. Once her husband went away for a week. She asked him for money with which to buy food but he left and he never returned.

Christensen did not like to work his wife said something he worked on a street car but he did not get a job. Sometimes he tended a bar but only to get a job she declared when there was no escape from it.

'STEALS' SALOON; EATS UP CHERRIES

Chauncey Kane, an old time householder, was arrested last night by a patrolman according to Deputy Marshal Clark of Berkeley. He was found in the saloon of the Emory Hotel, Berkeley, where he was arrested by Deputy Marshal Clark. He had been drinking and was found eating up the cherries in the saloon.

This incident in the life of Chauncey Kane occurred just after darkness had fallen on the night of the 9th. The patrons of the saloon were dancing the last dance and explaining why the dancing did not stop when Chauncey Kane was found eating up the cherries in the saloon.

The whole crowd including the bartender got out. He was placed behind the bar and proceeded to enjoy himself. He had added a few whiskeys to the beer he had already consumed and was proceeding to drink a bottle of them when a bottle of cherries in a macassar case was used as a cork. He caught it and he poured them out and ate them. He felt the cherries in his mouth and he sought a bottle of them and he poured them out and ate them. WOMEN ATTACK PASTOR AND DENOUNCE HIM ON STREET

ROUNDLY BERATE REV. W. E. TANNER

Angry Club Members Take Exception to Minister's Remarks About Societies.

For his attacks on women's clubs, the Rev. Walter E. Tanner, pastor of the Melrose Baptist Church, was stopped in the street and roundly berated by two men and three women last Tuesday evening. He has made a complaint to the police about the incident. He also says he is in constant receipt of threatening letters from club women of the city, whom he threatens to denounce from the pulpit. "By remarks made by my assailants I believe the assault was due to the controversy stirred up by my symposium sermons and attacks on women's clubs and their disastrous effects on home and society," said Rev. Mr. Tanner. "The women said they were members of the 'Elite Club' and denounced me in strong, vulgar and abusive terms."

WOMEN SWORE AT HIM.

"I was not expecting any such an attack and when I met five well-dressed persons on the street I attempted to go quietly on my way when one of the men grabbed my arm and said: 'This is for Tanner, who objects to women's clubs.' The women then surrounded me and taunted me with awful oaths. I did not know what to do or say and the opportune arrival of a street car caused my assailants to flee."

"There are certain club women in well-known women's organizations who must cease sending me inflammatory and threatening letters, written upon the stationery of prominent clubs and couched in sulphuric language."

RELINQUISH CLAIM TO GAMBLER'S FORTUNE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—Jane Cain, or Harvey, as she prefers to be known, has renounced her pretensions to the fortune of the late Joe Harvey, gambler and poolroom man. In consideration of $5000 paid her by Mrs. Louise Harvey, widow of the deceased, she signed an agreement relinquishing all claims on it.

BROADWAY AT ELEVENTH

REV. W. E. TANNER.

"If I receive another letter of this nature, just as sure as my name is Tanner I'll read their names and letters from my pulpit next Sunday evening and also have these women placed under peace bonds. I have had attempts upon my life in other campaigns, but such detonations of expression and threats I have never before set my eyes upon. If this is a sample of the broadness and liberality of the women's club movements the sooner they go into oblivion the better for the public morals."

"This is a country of free speech from the pulpit and no synecrased edition of a man or elongated production of a woman will swerve me from my course. I make this statement at the request of certain officials of the law and persons high in church circles who want these women to have a chance to save themselves from an undesirable publicity."

Harvey left half a million dollars. She claimed to be his common law wife, saying that they had entered on a contract of marriage in 1892. Harvey married another woman with all forms of law on December 18, 1902, and this Mrs. Harvey engaged Attorney Charles S. Wheeler when Jane Cain made trouble over the disposition of the estate, and he induced the woman to give up her claims.

DISCUSS ELECTRIC FRANCHISE TONIGHT

ALAMEDA, Jan. 10. — The Council will hold a committee meeting tonight to discuss the applications of the Southern Pacific Company for electric franchises through the city. The railroad company will be represented at the meeting by officials who will discuss the plans with the Councilmen.

ALAMEDA, Jan. 10. — Miss Mary Haggood, a resident of this city for many years, died yesterday morning at the home of her brother in San Antonio avenue. She was a native of New York, aged eighty-six years.

ENUNCIATES BROAD EPISCOPALIAN DOCTRINE

Presiding Bishop Tuttle Declares for Liberty of View and Christian Unity.

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 10.—In the address at the closing exercises of the Episcopal Mission Conference here last night, the Right Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, of Missouri, presiding bishop of the church in the United States, enunciated a broad doctrine for the church, in recognition of other denominations and for Christian unity. He said:

"The church hopes to get out of the way of narrowness herself; she hopes to be merciful and liberal and charitable; not wrapping herself up in any vestments or theological trappings, but holding up the old truths of the Christian faith. And if she does this she will look out over the world to other bodies of Christian people and sincerely say: 'They are members all of one body, by one baptism of the Holy Catholic Church.' And many of them so loyal, so earnest, and so faithful workers in our Master's kingdom, I may add, as to put us to shame. If she does look to this she will help to get ready for that blessed time when all will come together in one mighty army for the conflict with sin and selfishness and error."

Before he brought his sermon to a close the bishop took occasion to caution clergymen against rushing pell-mell into union services.

Bishop Johnston, of Texas, said: "It becomes us to throw an unkind word to any Christian body, not even the Salvation Army, for they are doing more than we are doing."

PEKIN, Jan. 10.—Further reports of the rioting at Kia-Hing-Fu, a town in the province of Che Kiang, declared the movement there to be anti-foreign. The Catholic missionary station has asked M. Eapst, the French Minister to China, for protection and the Minister will take up the matter with the foreign board today.

Two Department
Drug Stores

Do you know that Osgoods' Department Drug Stores are known as the "one better" stores.

No matter what inducement others may hold out for your patronage, Osgoods' will always be found "one better."

Suppose it's a trunk that you need—and everybody needs a good trunk—Osgoods' will not only fix you up one better, but five. That is to say he will sell you a strong, convenient and capacious trunk for that others would charge you $12 for.

Suppose it's cigars. At every other store you will pay 12½c for standard cigars. Osgoods' goes them all one better and sells them for

10c

Suppose it's rubber goods—Osgoods' will always be found one better in prices and quality than any other store.

Perhaps it's proprietary medicines—no matter what other alleged cut-rate stores may advertise, you will always find that Osgoods' goes them one better.

The Purifier of Public Morals

The short-circuiting of the current in the branch power house of the San Francisco Gas and Electric Company, at 22 Jessie street at 6 o'clock this morning, T. R. Spear, the electrician in charge, received a thousand volts of electricity, through his body, which stunned him almost into unconsciousness and threw him to the floor of the switching room. Spear, who was near the wires, was badly burned, but otherwise he was unmarked, and after being treated at Central Emergency Hospital he was taken

ASK $80,000 FOR SCHOOL PURPOSE

Fruitvale Trustees Call Mass Meetings to Discuss Bond Issue.

FRUITVALE, Feb. 10.—The local school trustees, desiring to raise $80,000 for school purposes by selling bonds, have issued the following statement:

"To the voters of Fruitvale School District: The remarkable growth of the population of our district, together with its accompanying increase in school attendance, has resulted in a very crowded condition of our schools, and, consequently, an urgent and immediate need for more class-rooms for the proper accommodation and education of our children.

"To meet the needs, past and present, the trustees have fitted up temporary rooms in hall and basements, and have used all available space that could be utilized for class-room purposes. In addition to all this, we have been compelled to resort to half-day sessions in some of the lower grades of the Alameda and the Fruitvale avenue schools, which is anything but satisfactory.

Schools Overcrowded.

"The ratio of increase in attendance has steadily grown from year to year, and the large number of residences now in course of construction in the district give ample testimony that the attendance will continue to increase in even greater ratio. What is to be done with these extra children? In schools that were built to accommodate 400 children we are now harboring 600 children. All available space has been utilized, and still the children come.

"With a view to solving this important problem we have resolved to call an election for the purpose of raising funds, by the issuance of bonds, for the following:

"To build an addition of eight class-rooms to each of the three schools; to install modern heating and sanitary equipments in each school; to supply the present buildings, and to add the new additions with furniture and accessories necessary for school purposes.

"The sum to be voted upon is $80,000.

"Will you give this measure your support? Will you assist us to provide room necessary for their proper education?"

"You are cordially invited to be present at mass meetings for the purpose of discussing this matter to be held at:

"Fruitvale-avenue school house, Tuesday, February 11, 1908, at 8 p. m.

"Upper Fruitvale school house, Wednesday, February 12, 1908, at 8 p. m.

"Alameda school house, Thursday, February 13, 1908, at 8 p. m.

"Trusting that you will give this matter your most thoughtful consideration, we remain very respectfully,

"H. K. FLETCHER,
"J. H. REILEY,

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR W. LANDERS

SAN LEANDRO, Feb. 10.—The funeral of William J. Landers, insurance man, capitalist and clubman, was held from the family home here yesterday. Dr. J. K. McLean, president of the Pacific Theological Institute of Berkeley, presided at the services. Pallbearers were: W. Meek, W. V. Eberly, R. E. Burnham, S. A. Brooks, Charles E. Palmer, William E. Lutz, A. A. Moore and E. E. Stone.

Landers was survived by his wife, two sons, William Herbert and Marsden H. Landers, and two daughters, Eleanor C. Landers and Bernice Landers Johnston. The remains were placed in a vault in Mountain View cemetery.

LEFT HOME TO LET HUBBY'S TEMPER COOL, SHE SAYS

ALAMEDA, Feb. 10.—William Albert, a master mariner living at 1517 Fifth street, reported to the police early yesterday morning that his wife had disappeared from home, taking their baby child. Detective Brown was sent to investigate and when he arrived at the house he found Mrs. Albert had returned. She explained that she left the house while her husband was angry and she wanted to give him time to cool.

REV. HOPKINS ACCEPTS CALL OF ALBANY CHURCH

REV. W. H. HOPKINS.

Leaves Congregational Church in Berkeley to Occupy Eastern Presbyterian Pulpit.

BERKELEY, Feb. 10.—The Rev. William Herman Hopkins, pastor of the First Congregational Church, told his congregation last night that he had decided to accept the call to the First Presbyterian Church of Albany, New York, and would lay down his work here as soon as his resignation had been accepted.

The Rev. Hopkins' announcement came as a surprise to his hearers. It had been reported some days ago that he would remain in Berkeley and only last week at a meeting of his congregation resolutions of confidence and appreciation of his services were carried with enthusiasm that presaged, it was thought,

PASTORS MAKE UNITED ATTACK ON GAMBLING

'Clean-Up, Shut Up or Get Out,' Declares Minister to Alleged Violators of Law.

ALAMEDA, Feb. 10.—The pastors of the local evangelical churches, in accordance with prearranged plans, spoke yesterday against gambling, pool selling and alleged violations of the liquor law. This was to follow out the campaign outlined by the ministerial union.

Doesn't Want Alameda.

Known as Monte Carlo.

The Rev. P. C. Macfarlane, pastor of the First Christian Church, said in part: "We are told by some that this campaign for civic cleanliness, law and order is hurting business. What kind of business and whose business is it injuring? It is hurting the business of the gambler, the pool seller and the liquor seller who is violating the ordinances. It is argued that the cleaning up of the town should have been done quietly. That opinion is now quite prevalent in Alameda. We do not wish Alameda to be known as a Monte Carlo. There is no more certain way of killing this city than to let it be known that its residents from up and down the line. The best friends of Alameda are those who insist upon the enforcement of its laws. The cry that has been set up, 'this crusade will ruin business; it will kill the town,' seems to have emanated from a group of men who, as far as their records and appearance go, have never lifted a finger to keep the city clean, and see that the laws are carried out.

"Now that other public spirited residents are determined to stand for the right, these complainers wrap themselves in pharisaical robes of righteousness. It will not hurt Alameda to let it be known that we have courts and trials and condemn law breakers. It is a blow to our civic pride, however, to have it become known that when the chief of police goes to sleep the citizens have to rise up and perform his duty for him."

"Clean Up, Shut Up or Get Out."

Rev. L. Potter Hitchcock of the First Congregational Church in a talk upon "Alameda Gambling at Close Quarters," said in part:

"Why should any resident be asked to put up with businesses that are not run on the square, such as gambling and pool selling?"

CONVICTED MINISTER GOES BACK TO HIS PASTORATE

Found Guilty of Counterfeiting, Under Bonds, He Conducts Services.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—The Rev. James B. Kays, convicted in the United States District Court at Springfield a counterfeiter, resumed the pastorate of the First Congregational church of Wheaton yesterday and conducted the Sunday services.

The minister was convicted of counterfeiting and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth January 11. His case was taken to the United States Court of Appeals, and on Friday

STUDENTS FOLLOW PEACEFUL METHOD

Abolish Rush Tactics at Berkeley for Election—Two Candidates Named.

BERKELEY, Feb. 10.—Following the precedent of abolishing the rush, the class of 1910 of the University will endeavor to settle the selection of the officers of Blue and Gold this year by resort to peaceful nomination instead of the boisterous election tactics that have characterized the filing of the places in the past. It is probable that at the meeting of the class Wednesday morning the class will caucus and name the different men and women and that these nominations will be ratified by open voting then and there.

Alan C. Van Fleet is thus far the only man spoken of for the editorship. He is at present connected with the "Occident" and during his school days at Lowell High school edited his class paper. He was a member of the freshman track team last year and was chairman of the decoration committee of the recent sophomore hop.

For the managership the only candidate appears to be Herbert S. Johns, Johns managed "Tiger," the Luck School publication, during his prep. days. He is at present assistant manager of the "Occident." He played on the class football team last year and was a member of the freshman track team. He is also a likely man for a place on the varsity football team. He is a member of the sophomore reception hop committee.

THIRD CLUB FOR YOUTHS FORMED

Children to Take Excursions Into Fields to Study Flowers.

BERKELEY, Feb. 10.—Under the guidance of Hugo H. Lienthal, the well known landscape gardener of this place, branch 3, of West Berkeley branch of the Juvenile Horticultural Society, was organized last night. The following were elected as officers: Mary Sanyter, president; Josie Struhm, vice-president; Charley Hartwell, recording secretary; Eva Wells, assistant recording secretary; Maude Steward, financial secretary; Jessie Marings, treasurer; James Finger, in charge of tools; Alice Williams, in charge of seeds; Veronica Finger, librarian; Anna Nixon, branch organizer.

Owing to the overflowing attendance at the other meetings it was decided to organize this new branch as the establishing of these juvenile horticultural societies have received the stamp of approval from all sides on account of their educational instructions.

School Girls and Clubs.

The Misses Mary Sanyter and Josie Struhm, two young Berkeley High School girls, are credited with doing much good for the benefit of the juveniles. Mr. Lienthal from time to time will arrange botanical excursions, affording the juveniles a better opportunity to study plant life.

The meetings in the future will take place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williams, 708 Channing way on Sunday mornings at 10 o'clock.

"Branch Berkeley" meets every Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. at the residence of Mrs. Renell, 277 Dwight way.

"Branch North Berkeley" meets every Saturday afternoon at 3 p. m. at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Wetmore, 2223 Hearst avenue.

It is expected that branches will soon be established in South Berkeley, Oakland and in other bay cities.

RECITAL GIVEN BY MRS. SWETT'S PUPILS

DECATO, Feb. 10.—The pupils of Mrs. Adelle Sweet gave their first public recital recently at the home of Mrs. H. Ibberson, when the following program was carefully rendered and received much applause from the invited guests.

1. Song, "Three Green Bonnets," Wynona Hibbard.
2. Springtime, May Martin.
3. (a) One a Penny; (b) Salute to Our King, Clifford Schickel.
4. Piano: March, Present Arms, Marjory May.
5. Solo, A Winter Lullaby, Gertrude May.
6. Piano Solo, "The Palms," Ethel Perrier.
7. Song, "Face to Face," Jessie Ibberson.
8. Piano Solo, "Story Teller," Jeanette Peterson.
9. Song, (a) "Forgotten"; (b) Hold Thou My Hand, Ethel Perrier.
10. Piano Solo, "Mignon," Jessie Ibberson.
11. Song, "Three Green Bonnets," Jeanette Peterson.
12. (a) Sleep Little Baby of Mine; (b) The Merry, Merry Lark, Mrs. Adelle Sweet.

As Mrs. Sweet finished singing her last selection Wynona Hibbard on behalf of the class presented her with a beautiful silver vase in recognition of Mrs. Sweet's natal day, which occurred on Thursday, the 30th. Refreshments were served after, which Miss Charlotte Meyer pleasantly rendered two vocal solos.

MRS. LESTRANGE NOT IN NEED OF ELKS AID

BERKELEY, Feb. 10.—Mrs. Emma LeStrange, widow of the policeman, John LeStrange, who died a few days ago of appendicitis, has told the Berkeley Elks that she does not wish any benefit entertainment given her. She says she is not in need, and at the same time offers her thanks to the Elks for their professed aid.

The Elks had planned a big benefit entertainment on the strength of reports that Mrs. LeStrange was in needy circumstances. Although LeStrange was not an Elk, the benefit was designed to show the appreciation of the organization for his good services while on the force.

MRS. C. ANDERSON DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

ALAMEDA, Feb. 10.—Mrs. Caroline Anderson, wife of Captain N. Anderson, a retired sea captain, who is proprietor of a boat house at High street, died yesterday morning after an illness of many years. Mrs. Anderson suffered from a paralytic stroke about five years ago and was confined to her bed for most of the time until her death. She was the mother of Mrs. Ida Markwell, Mrs. A. H. Hatt, Miss and Henry Anderson. She was 61 years of age.

WITH THE PLAYERS

FOREIGN ARTISTS AT THE ORPHEUM

Hilda Spong and William Hawtrey Among Delightful Players at Theater.

Real European vaudeville, of the sort which the Orpheum puts on its bills, with the imprint of "genuine" stamped all over it, was notable in the new program which went on at the Oakland Orpheum Theater yesterday afternoon. The crowds that go to the Orpheum and that pack the spacious theater night and day are quick to see and detect the difference between the real and the imitation, "European vaudeville" is concerned.

The Orpheum bill yesterday was graced with the name of two distinguished foreign actors—Hilda Spong and her companion, and William Hawtrey with his company, and the players, each of these being a dramatic star of the highest class in England. Ranking with them, but in a different field, was the delightful Parisian novelty and musical act, the Dumond's minstrels, than which nothing finer has been brought from Europe to this country. Also there came a musical novelty from Vienna, Austria; a magnificent aerial act from the London and New York Hippodrome; a delightful musical bit presented by four Austrian maidens, and, to give America representation on the program, there were bits of military offered by a beautiful American artist, and an interesting performance by a Lithuanian comedian, formerly of Europe, but who of late years has been kept busy on the stage in America.

It was a pleasure yesterday to see the delight which the crowds took in the Dumond's minstrels act. The musicians came on toward the end of the program, after a succession of fine vaudeville acts had been shown, and the crowd had been worked up to a pitch of excitement by a series of clever tricks shown to them.

Near the end of the show the Parisian musicians strolled out on the stage, in the guise of street singers. The crowd watched them with evident curiosity for a few minutes, apparently undecided as to just what sort of entertainment these street singers had to offer, but when once the violin, the mandolin player and the artists on the guitar began, the crowd lost all doubt and fairly shouted.

Another European feature that caught the fancy of the crowd was that provided by Zinka Penna. She is from Austria. Her clever trained dogs were feature of the act. She played on a variety of instruments and was unique in everything she did.

Hilda Spong, the distinguished English actress, a beautiful woman and splendid artist, provided one of the most pleasing features of the program with her dramatic play called "Kit," in which she took the part of a girl of the wild west.

The four pretty Amatis girls, whose foreign accent betrayed their recent coming to these shores, caught the fancy of the crowd when they played on Grand pianos and exhibited their cleverness as singers in a musical act.

There was dash to the mimicry of Miss Violet Dalt. She mimicked Anna Held, and informed the audience that she simply could "not make her eyes behave," which it appears is one of Anna Held's latest song successes. Then Miss Dalt showed how Fay Templeton has become famous, and gave Oakland folks a chance to witness a bit of Vesta Victoria's stage work.

Hawtrey is Success.

William Hawtrey made an impressive success with his play, "Compromised." A whirlwind of applause greeted Hawtrey at the finish of his act. It will be many a long day before the Orpheum crowds, or any other crowds, are given a taste of such art as Hawtrey puts forth, and those who love a bit of drama, clean and as a cameo, and as brilliant as any diamond, will get theirs when they take a glance at William Hawtrey and the stuff in his play that he has labeled "Compromised."

The Curzon Sisters, aerial butterflies, created a sensation with their daring work in mid-air.

Adolph Zink, the Lithuanian, was retained from last week's program, and with his motion pictures showing himself in his dressing room, preparing for his act, was quite a hit.

Some new motion pictures were shown; these being of the Orpheum's own importation.

DIVORCE CAUSED MARSTON SUICIDE

Jury Hears in Testimony Wife He Expected Back Was Again Married.

ALAMEDA, Feb. 10.—The inquest held yesterday morning, to inquire into the suicide of Joseph Marston, brought out no new features, and the jury returned a verdict that Marston died from a gunshot wound inflicted with suicidal intent.

Though no new light was shed on the tragedy at the inquest, a statement made by a relative of the dead man may account for his desire to die. It is said that he was attempting to effect a reconciliation with his divorced wife, who was in the East, and that she had promised to return to him. He was waiting her coming to this city, when he received a letter from her stating that she was not going to come for a number of months, and she had secured a good position. Later, it is said, he received a note from the East announcing the marriage of his divorced wife. He brooded over the contents of the letter for a number of days before ending his life.

Mrs. Annie Thonagie, whom he attempted to murder, was the main witness at the inquest. She related how Marston had twice snatched the trigger of the revolver in her face and its fall to explode. There was no testimony to the effect that the man was under the influence of intoxicants, though Mrs. Thonagie made such a statement the morning of the suicide.

HOTALING IN OTHELLO

To Alternate Roles Throughout Week With Landers Stevens.

Richard M. Hotaling will appear in "Othello" tonight at Ye Liberty Playhouse. The powerful Shakespearean tragedy, regarded by many as a greater drama than "Hamlet," and by nearly all students of Shakespeare as more human and intense in its appeal to the sympathies of the audience, will be given a magnificent presentation.

This evening Hotaling will play Othello and Henry C. Mortimer will appear as Iago. Throughout the week, however, the millionaire clubman will alternate in these two roles. Mortimer will play Iago to his Othello, and Landers Stevens will play Othello to his Iago.

The theater will be packed again this evening, for Hotaling's friends are coming again to see him in the second play of his Shakespearean repertoire. There will be another fashionable assemblage of the clubman's acquaintances.

Ann Tasker Takes Her Place in "The Toreador."

Miss Sybil Page, prima donna soprano of the Idera Park Opera Company, met with a painful accident yesterday and as a result was unable to appear at either the matinee or evening performance of "The Toreador." At the entrance to Idera Park she slipped and fell, spraining her ankle seriously. It was necessary to summon a carriage and send her immediately to her home in San Francisco.

After Miss Page had been injured it was necessary to call upon Miss Ann Tasker to fill her place. This young woman had only a few hours' notice, yet she perfected herself in the leading role of the opera and shortly after 8 o'clock in the afternoon entered the performance and went through it without a hitch. She sang the several songs with a sweet, strong voice and acted throughout with grace and vivacity and without the slightest evidence of nervousness.

Miss Tasker is known to her friends in private life as Nana Swath. She is an Oakland girl, a graduate of the Oakland High school. Her performance yesterday gave promise of a brilliant future in opera. It will be necessary for her to take the part again this evening and perhaps for the next several performances.

The music of "The Toreador" is splendidly melodious, but is extremely difficult, hence the greater credit is due Miss Tasker for the really remarkable feat she accomplished in not only learning the songs, but in thoroughly acquainting herself with the demands the music would make upon her dramatic ability. The part is that of Nancy Stanton, the pretty English girl who is induced to impersonate a young man. Miss Tasker wore the ratty masculine attire in the most tantalizing fashion. The second week of "The Toreador" will begin this evening.

U. OF C. PREPARES FOR ANNUAL WOMAN'S DAY

BERKELEY, Feb. 10.—Preparations for the annual woman's day at the University of California are under way.

It will take on the nature of an athletic carnival with tennis and boating as leading events in the morning and basketball in the afternoon. In the evening at Hearst Hall there will be a reception, followed by a colonial ball.

ROOSEVELT DENIES AIDING TAFT THROUGH APPOINTEES

'False and Malicious,' Declares President of Charges Which Have Been Made Against Him.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. — President Roosevelt is not doing politics with his appointments to the candidacy of Secretary of War Taft, he declares in a letter that has been made public. This letter was a reply to William Dudley Foulke, of Richmond, Indiana, a personal friend of Roosevelt, who wrote to him asking for such a denial. President Roosevelt says:

"The statement that I have used the offices in an effort to nominate any presidential candidate is both false and malicious.
It is the usual imaginative invention which flows from a desire to say something injure. Remember that those now making this accusation were busy engaged two months ago in asserting that I was using the offices to secure my own renomination."

"In appointing men to the great bulk of offices, it is, of course, out of the question for me personally to examine or to have knowledge of such a multitude of appointments, and therefore as regards them, I nominally accept the suggestions of Senators and Congressmen, the elected representatives of the people in the localities concerned, always reserving to myself the right to insist upon a man's coming up to the required standard of character and capacity, and also reserving the right to nominate whomsoever I choose if for any reason I am satisfied that I am not receiving from the Senator or Congressman good advice, or if I happen personally to know some peculiarly fit man."

Seeks Advice of Others.

"In the South Atlantic and Gulf States which have contained neither Senators or Congressmen of my own party, I have been obliged to seek my advice from various sources. In those States I have appointed a large number of Democrats, in some States the Democrats appointed outnumbering the Republicans."

"For advice in appointing the Republicans I have relied whenever possible upon upon office-holders at all, but upon men of standing and position who would not take office and on whose integrity I could depend."

"As instances merely, I will refer to Colonel Cecil A. Lyon of Texas, commanding one of the Texas National Guard regiments, and a man of independent means, engaged in active business; and to Mr. Frank Wright of Louisiana and to Mr. George of Florida, also men of independent means and of large business affairs; all of them being among the most

The African Negro

Has Beautiful Pearly Teeth, Clean, White and Perfect, Without a Flaw, Even in Old Age.

Living Near to Nature, His Digestion Is Perfect.

Dr. Livingstone, and later, Henry Stanley, both of whom spent much time in the exploration of Africa, in their memoirs mention the fact that members of all the tribes that they came in contact with possessed beautiful, white, pearly, sound teeth, and that on investigation they found that this was due to the fact that the digestive organs of the negro had never been impaired, and that they were able at all times to take care of the coarse foods that were taken into the stomach.

The negroes' food is of the plainest kind and is seldom if ever cooked. It is eaten as it is found, with but little preparation.

The cause of the unsound and imperfect teeth found among civilized people is due to two important facts—the prevalence of dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles, and the food we eat.

In the foods that we eat there is a lack of phosphates and other materials necessary to make repairs and supply the waste in the teeth.

Then again few people in civilized countries are free from dyspepsia, which interferes with the whole system and causes trouble everywhere.

To have sound teeth, cure your dyspepsia and eat proper foods, and you will have little trouble with them.

A package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets should be kept in the house at all times. They cure dyspepsia, sour stomach, indigestion, and put the stomach and intestines in a healthy condition.

The Tablets contain a powerful ingredient which assists the stomach in the process of digestion, and puts it in a healthy condition.

There are many bodily ills due entirely to stomach troubles.

If you are ill ask yourself if your trouble may not be caused by indigestion.
This may be the cause of the whole difficulty, and to cure it means to have perfect health.

You can get Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drugstore, for they are as staple as any drug in the store. They are 50 cents per package.

CHARGE SOLDIERS WITH MAN'S DEATH

Companions From Fort Threatened Rescue of Men Arrested for Murdering Hotel Clerk.

DENVER, Feb. 10. — Thomas Lun-ny, night clerk at the Hotel at Petersburg, Colo., a small town near Fort Logan, died last night, from wounds received in a fight Saturday morning, and John Laughlin and Robert Morris, soldiers from Fort Logan, members of Company B, Twenty-first Infantry, are under arrest in this city, where they were arrested to prevent their rescue by soldiers from the fort.
Lunny Friday night ejected several soldiers from the hotel and several of them laid in wait for him until morning and administered a severe beating to him. Laughlin and Morris were arrested for the assault and Lun-ny was brought to a hospital in this city for treatment. During Saturday soldiers began gathering in the town of Littleton, where the two soldiers were confined in jail, and fearing an attack on the jail, the men were brought to the county jail in this city.
As a result of Lunny's death, Laughlin and Morris will be charged with murder. Lunny was formerly a member of the regular army. His home was at Carbondale, Pennsylvania.

JUNIOR AERO CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED

NEW YORK, Feb. 10. — Under the direction of various members of the Aero Club of America, the Junior Aero Club of the United States is being organized here.
No person over 21 years of age is eligible for active membership, the objects of the organization as set forth in the constitution being to encourage the study of aerial science among young persons and to hold exhibitions and contests with apparatus designed for aerial locomotion, made or owned by its active members.
A contest for "pilot" balloons is expected.
It was stated yesterday, to be held in New York on May 30th next, as the first of the club's competitive events.

to holding the commission of President.
"Not an appointment has been made that would not have been made if there had been no presidential contest pending, and in no case has there been a deviation from the course that I would have pursued had none of those who actually are candidates for the nomination been removed or threatened with removal or coerced in any way to secure his support for any presidential candidate. In fact, the only coercion that I have attempted to exercise was to forbid the office-holders from pushing my own nomination."

TETRAZZINI COMING TO THE COAST NEXT YEAR

"Doc" Leahy Comes Back From New York With Message
From the Singer.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10. —Tetrazzini will sing in San Francisco next year.
This is the news that William H. Leahy, formerly manager of the Tivoli Opera House, brings from New York, where he journeyed to hear the favorite diva and to pay her a personal visit.

Leahy hoped to be able to arrange for the appearance of Tetrazzini in this city some time this year, following her engagement at the Manhattan Opera House in New York, but previous contracts at Covent Garden, London, and to make a concert tour of England prevented the consummation of his plan.
However, Tetrazzini promised Leahy to sing here in grand opera the following year after her next engagement at the Manhattan. Before that time it is expected that the new opera house, which is being planned here, will be completed and Tetrazzini will be able to open the house.

"I found the diva unaffected by her wonderful triumphs," said Leahy; "the same jolly, lovable little woman whom all San Francisco open-gogers know so well. Her voice has, in a certain sense, improved. It has rounded out and is more powerful than it was. Never, in the history of grand opera, has any singer won such a magnificent success as Tetrazzini. I heard her sing Lucia and the audience became frenzied with enthusiasm. She was called out twenty-two times before the curtain after the mad scene. Whenever she sings it is impossible to get near the theater.
Seats even in the gallery sell at $35, and are hard to get at that price. She is being extensively extolled by smart society people and enjoying her self tremendously. Before I left she asked me to give this message to the people of this city:

"Tell them that I love San Francisco better than any other place in the world and I hope to make it my home when I retire from the stage. It is the only city in the world for a singer to live in."

PREACHES ON EVILS OF THE RACE TRACK

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10. —The majority of the embezzlements and defaucations that have occurred in San Francisco are traceable, directly or indirectly, to the race track," said Rev.
Louis Sawyer, pastor of Hamilton Square Baptist church, last night in the prelude of his sermon.
"Gambling in any form," said the pastor, "produces idleness, promotes theft, ruins manhood and corrupts the State, but the most insidious form of all of the many ways of gambling is betting on horse races, the so-called "Sport of Kings." Its evil influence creeps into every corner of society. In the great army of bettors we find men, women and children. Families are rendered destitute by the evil spirit of the race track, women fall from grace and lose their honor in attempting to recoup fortunes swept away in betting at the track.
"It becomes a mania, and ceases only in most cases, in utter ruin."

How to Enter the Hunt

THE TRIBUNE'S Proverb Hunt is a contest of skill and diligence. Every day for fifty days there will appear a picture or cartoon representing a familiar and commonly used English Proverb or Quotation.

The correct answers, to serve as a basis of awards, have been selected from a standard work on English Proverbs and placed under seal. This correct list will be published with the announcement of the winners.
To insure the picture and the answer blank which will be published every day, commencing Wednesday, Feb. 5, and save until the close of the contest. This will enable you to think about the answer and afford ample time for all members of the family to suggest answers. As all editions of THE TRIBUNE will be quickly sold out every day, we cannot guarantee to supply back numbers of the paper after the regular edition is sold out. To insure getting THE TRIBUNE order it delivered at your home.
Send us your name and address, and the publication of the last picture for answers to be sent in. This will afford time for careful study of the last picture, as well as re-examination of all the pictures. The answers may be filled out in any legible way, by hand, using pen, pencil, or ball-point, etc. Address all answers to the Proverb Hunt Manager.

Rules of the Hunt

1.—The Proverb Hunt is open to all, but contestants must indicate the proverb each picture represents on the blank provided thereon—and all may compete without charge, on consideration of any kind, but only one member of a family will be entitled to receive a prize.

2.—Contestants may submit as many answers to each proverb as they desire, but each must be upon a separate blank.

3.—Blanks may be filled out in any legible way, by pen, pencil or typewriter, etc.

4.—Answers must be sent in only at the close of the contest; all answers must be in THE TRIBUNE office one week after the last or fiftieth picture has appeared.

5.—All answers must be plainly addressed to the Proverb Editor, THE TRIBUNE, Oakland, Cal. They may be left at the office or mailed, in which event they should be fully prepaid.

6.—Employees of THE TRIBUNE and members of their families are positively barred from competing for rewards in this contest.

7.—In making the awards, the judges —whose names will be announced in due course—will take into account the similarity of the answers to the exact wording of the proverbs as selected by the Proverb Editor; spelling, punctuation and the correct construction are also considered, and will be graded.
Reasonable neatness will be taken into consideration. The awards of the judges will be final in all cases.

8.—The first prize will go to the person answering all, or nearest all, of the fifty proverbs correctly. The person answering the second largest number correctly, or nearest so, will receive second prize, etc. In event of a tie the prizes will be divided.

9.—In the event of a tie for any prize, the value of such will be equally divided, or a prize of similar character and value awarded each tying contestant.

10.—THE TRIBUNE reserves the right to make any changes or additions to these conditions that it may deem desirable in the interest of contestants. The good faith and honor of THE TRIBUNE are pledged to insure a "square deal" for all.

List of answers is deposited with Security Bond and Trust Co., 11th and Broadway.

Roosevelt Meets the Patronage Issue

The President has made his reply to the charge that he is using the Federal patronage to force the nomination of Secretary Taft, and a comprehensive, convincing document it is. The denial is direct, positive, detailed and explicit, and is as complete an answer as could be framed. Not the least gratifying feature of the President's letter is its perfect frankness, its lack of acrimony and its clear logical marshaling of facts. In no respect does it detract from Mr. Roosevelt's reputation of being a good fighter and a strong controversialist.

In his analysis of the list of Presidential appointments, the President shows that not one was dictated by a purpose to promote the candidacy of Secretary Taft. Indeed, he challenges his critics to name a single instance in which an appointee was pledged to Taft or an official asked to support the Secretary of War. He admits that he refused to make appointments in Ohio that would strengthen a guerilla war on the administration. The common law of self-preservation justifies him in this, and the general public will be inclined to the opinion that he might with propriety have gone further in that direction in view of the character of the fight being made on him and the motives behind it.

His exposure of the false pretenses of his critics in the matter of the Pattsburg custom house puts them in a shame-faced, ludicrous light. They have been complaining that he refused to reappoint the collector, Walter Witherbee, because he favored the nomination of Hughes. The President says Mr. Witherbee is an ardent Taft man, having been a classmate at Yale of the Secretary of War, and was the only applicant for Federal appointment in New York that Taft endorsed and recommended. Witherbee is still holding the collectorship, but has not, as yet, been reappointed because of a clash between the Congressional representative from the district and one of the Senators.

In regard to appointments at the South, the President says he has named many Democrats of high standing in preference to nominating Republicans of disreputable character and antecedents. This is well known to the country at large, and is entirely satisfactory to the mass of good citizens. The opposition, therefore, of the so-called Southern Republicans who are Republicans for office and revenue only is a testimonial of honor. These men are fighting the President over Taft's shoulders because they demand the privilege of trading delegates in the national Republican convention for promises of future preferment. Their methods are as disreputable as their motives are venal, and they have brought a vast deal of deserved reproach on the Republican party. Actuated themselves by the most sordid of motives they are appealing to the passions and prejudices of the more ignorant negroes to oppose the President. A sample of their work has just been presented in Florida, where a disgraceful row in the convention and a bolt was precipitated by prearrangement.

It is a matter of public knowledge out here that the Presidential appointments in California have not been dictated by a desire to promote Taft's candidacy. So fair has he been that some complaint has been made that the President is overlooking Taft's interests in this State. The complaint is groundless, however, for the refusal of the President to take part in the factional politics of California has strengthened Taft's candidacy and insured him the delegation from this State without serious opposition. Indeed the complaint proceeds from disappointed aspirants for office, who have vainly tried to make the President believe they are the only friends the administration has in California.

Expansion of Fruitvale.

The trustees of the Fruitvale school district have issued an address to the voters in it announcing their decision to call an election for the incurring of an $80,000 bonded indebtedness for the construction of twenty-four new class rooms, eight to each of the three school buildings in the district, to meet the growing demand for increased accommodations. Three public meetings have also been called to discuss the proposition, the first of which will be held tomorrow evening at Fruitvale avenue school house, the second on Wednesday evening at Upper Fruitvale school, and the third on Thursday evening at Allendale school house.

The project is illustrative of the extraordinary growth of Oakland's suburbs. In this one school district, the three large school buildings are harboring one-third more children than they were planned to accommodate. The trustees have, moreover, been forced to resort to such expedients as half-day sessions for some classes and the hiring of temporary rooms in halls and basements for the use of others that cannot be housed in the present school buildings.

In all directions between the eastern boundary line of the city and San Leandro creek, new buildings are going up everywhere, showing plainly the marvelous growth of population in these suburbs. A great number of new residences are in course of erection in the Fruitvale school district, which clearly indicates that further demands for school accommodations than those now existing will soon have to be met again by the trustees. Every new house built means an increase in the population.

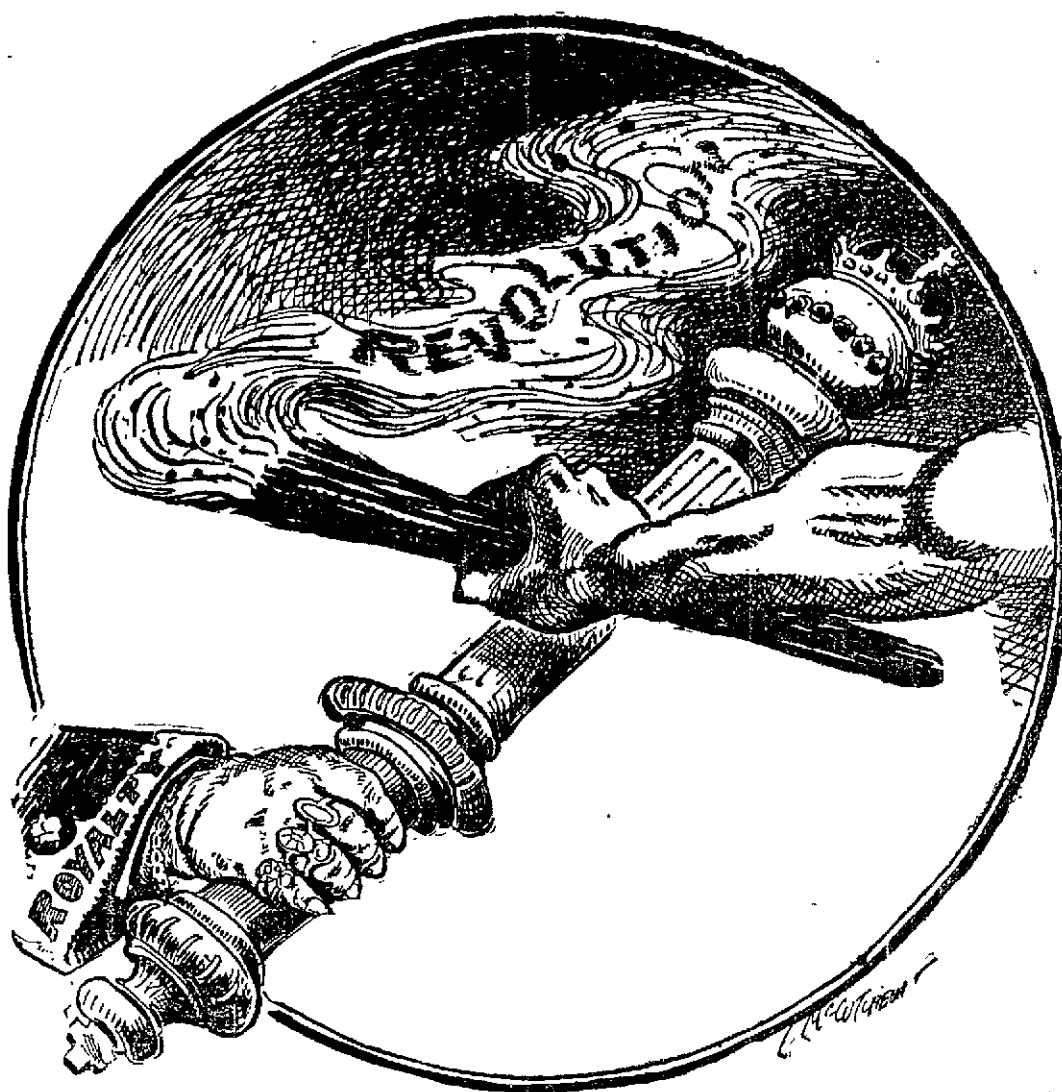

The ratio of the increase in the suburbs east of Oakland had been steadily growing from year to year prior to April, 1906, but since then the ratio of increase has advanced by leaps and bounds. Vast areas of territory, which contained two years ago only a few isolated residences widely scattered apart are now what may be fairly described as densely packed communities; and the settlements formerly isolated from one another are now merging into each other in a manner that where one's territory begins and the other's end can no longer be distinguished. It is quite evident from the rapidity of the growth of these settlements that other school trustees besides those of Fruitvale will soon be required to expand their facilities for the education of the increasing numbers of the children within their several jurisdictions.

Congress has shelved tariff revision till after the election. When the election is over it will be claimed, as a pretext for further delay, that the question of tariff revision has never been submitted to the people. Thus the issue will be dodged till after another election.

Benjamin Ide Wheeler protested against paying that $7.55 duty on his Manila cigars merely to give a polite hint to his Filipino friend to prepay the duty next time he forwarded a similar gift. Like Joey Bagstock, Benjamin Ide is sly, devilish sly.

If the ground hog came out on February 1, as is his wont, according to the Farmers' Almanac, it must have been because he was drowned out.

WHICH HAND WINS?

—CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE.

According to a New York dispatch E. T. Jeffery, president of the Western Pacific Railroad Company, declares the announcement made by the vice-president and the secretary of the Great Western Electric Power Company that electricity will be employed as the motive power on the company's system for the hauling of passenger and freight trains, is premature. The company, Jeffery says, has been considering the question, but so far no definite conclusion has yet been reached. The probabilities are, he adds, that when the road is opened to traffic steam locomotives will be first employed. As the study of the uses and merits of electricity is to be continued, however, it indicates that the management of the corporation strongly favors its employment as the motive power of the system. But it is a noteworthy fact that in making this explanation Mr. Jeffery has studiously avoided denying the announcement that the Great Western Power Company is a Western Pacific auxiliary concern.

The election of a delegation from Indiana pledged to Vice-President Fairbanks is not particularly significant. Indiana is Fairbanks' State, and State pride has always been strong with the Indians. But Taft is the second choice of the delegation, which means that the vote of the Hoosier State will be cast in the end for the Secretary of War.

Terse Press Comment

Speaker Cannon Tells

One of His Peculiarly Characteristic Stories

Speaker Cannon has something like the Lincoln fund of apt stories—not all of them of a refined type to be sure—and now and then he brings out one worth circulating. Congressman Sherman of New York congratulated "Uncle Joe" on "the avenue," the other day, saying "Now, Roosevelt is out of it, nothing can prevent your being nominated for President." "Jim," said the speaker, as he entwined his arm in that of the New York member, "I am reminded of old 'Bill' Devine, out in my district. Devine was on his way home from a political rally and his skin fairly oozed alcohol. Passing through a field he kicked up a rattlesnake, which emitted a warning. 'Bill' drew himself up with dignified solemnity, eyed the reptile with lofty contempt and said: 'Strike' darn you, you'll never find me better prepared!"—Springfield Republican.

Farmers of the Country Not Worried by Any Wall Street Furies

At a recent gathering of editors of agricultural papers at Chicago an interesting collection of opinions was obtained as to the effect upon the farmer of the existing money stringency. Without exception these editors, who are closely in touch with their rural clientele, declared that the farmers have in no way been injured by the flurry. Some of the opinions were to the effect that the agriculturalist had been an actual gainer from present conditions. Good crops have been reported from all parts of the country, though not quite as good as those of last year, but the increased prices have made this year a more profitable season for the farmer than many recent years. The tillers of the soil are entirely contented and not at all worried over the financial outlook. Whatever cause there may be for "pacing the floor," the farmers feel that the pacing job is one for Wall street. The indications seem to be that the flurry will be a thing of the past without the farmers having felt any of its disastrous effects.

M. W. Lawrence of the Ohio Farmer is quoted by the Chicago Examiner as having said: "Ohio farmers are in an exceedingly prosperous condition. Our State has 114,000,000 bushels of corn, 32,000,000 of wheat, 33,000,000 of oats and 10,000,000 bushels of potatoes. All of which are being sold at high prices. The crop yields are a trifle less than last year, but are bringing higher prices, so Ohio farmers have more money to spend this winter than they have had in many years."

Such reports are decidedly encouraging. They indicate that there is no just fundamental reason for the money famine and no likelihood of its long continuation. As long as the agricultural interests are not adversely affected, as long as the farmer is content to allow Wall street to do all the worrying, there is no ground for apprehension of severe financial disaster.—Cleveland Plaindealer

Prohibition Meets

Its Waterloo in South Carolina

Prohibition has been defeated in South Carolina and Michigan. This is the first setback the movement has had in months and probably is a direct result of the active campaign recently decided upon by national liquor interests. Provided honest means are employed, the saloonist has the same right as the temperance advocate to present his case; but let the liquor societies see to it that their campaign is honest. In times past, it has been far from so. The era is over in which the American people will suffer the slum-sealer to control politics. The decent saloon proprietor can survive, in a majority of States; the divekeeper may as well learn another trade.—Butte Inter-Mountain.

Marking the Graves of the Ex-Presidents of the United States.

Interest in the subject of marking the graves of ex-presidents has been revived by the introduction in Congress within a day or two of each other of two bills appropriating $10,000 and $25,000, respectively, to provide suitable monuments for the graves of Martin Van Buren and President Tyler. The bills should be passed by all means and suitable provision should also be made to preserve the graves of any other ex-presidents which have fallen into neglect.

It is a reproach to the State of New York as well as to the nation that a monument was not erected to Martin Van Buren long ago. "He was buried in the Old Kinderhook cemetery in 1862," says the Albany Times-Union, "and his grave is marked by a simple granite shaft, erected by his family. No effort has been made by his fellow-citizens in Kinderhook, or by the State at large, to honor his memory until within the past few weeks."

A resident of the village drew up a petition asking Congress to appropriate $10,000 to erect a monument on the village square. The petition was signed by representative citizens of Kinderhook and Columbia county, and the bill has been introduced in Congress by Representative McMullan of the 21st district. The friends of President Van Buren have planned to ask Henry Augustus Lukeman, who designed the McKinley monument at Adams, Mass., to prepare a suitable design for the monument to be reared at Kinderhook.

It is in keeping with the spirit of democracy that our ex-presidents should be laid at rest in the humble communities from which they were called to public life, but the custom offers no excuse to the nation for neglecting their burial places afterward. The fact that their graves are scattered about the country makes it easier to forget this duty, however, than if their remains were gathered at the nation's capital in a plot dedicated to that purpose.—Rochester Post-Express.

Dr. Wiley's Ridiculous Anti-Sulphur Crusade Is Fully Exposed

Ventura fruit growers by close investigation, more searching than has ever been made previously, have found that there is but one grain of sulphur dioxide, or the real harmful part of sulphur, in three and a half quarts of cooked sulphured apricots. It will be readily seen how very harmless the sulphured fruit is. What man, we want to know, is going to eat three and a half quarts of apricots, or even one quart, and how long would he last if he attempted. If he ever succeeded in a near approach to this amount he would turn up his toes. If he did not explode before, but it would not have been the sulphuric acid which caused our tears to flow for his untimely end. The cots would have killed him. And it is the wisdom of one Wiley which tells us our dried fruit is dangerous. So it is if we eat enough of it raw. But Lord bless you, Wiley, these days the people cook their dried fruit before eating it, nor do they attempt to take three quarts and a half at a sitting, nor any greater quantity of it than is polite at table nor than their appetites demand. Oh, Wiley, Wiley, go to.—Ventura Free Press.

A stranger approached a little girl who was somewhat accustomed to interviews with the usual question, "What's your name, little girl?" The little girl, without looking up from her sand pile, replied, "My name is Edith and I'm four. She's my little sister; her name's Mildred and she's two. I don't want to go with you and be your little girl, and I know you can't steal my little sister."—Harper's Weekly.

BURNS AND PALMER TO FIGHT TONIGHT

JACK GLEASON IS IN BAD WAY FOR FEBRUARY CARD

Packey McFarland Has Disappointed Promoter by Signing to Fight in Milwaukee.

BY EDDIE SMITH.

Things look bad for a boxing contest this month in San Francisco for last night Jack Gleason announced that unless he could sign up a good attraction within the next day or so he would forfeit the February date allowed him by the Supervisors.

The last match that Gleason tried to handle was one between Freddie Welsh and Packey McFarland. He secured the consent of McFarland to a match on the coast and everything looked rosy for the Welsh-McFarland contest for the reason that Welsh had expressed the wish so often to come to the coast that it was thought that all he needed was a chance to show here and he would pack his grips and start for the coast.

Welsh proved not so anxious, however, for last night Gleason received word that he had tied himself down with a forfeit at Milwaukee which would prevent him coming to the coast. Now Gleason is left high and dry for a match and he is in the air as to what to do with his fight date. With the many good cards that are at the present time lying around idle it would seem that Jack could have something good if he had half tried, the trouble was that he dickered with the few lightweight that he has been trying to match exclusively for so long that they have now got him in a bad position for it would require a deal of advertising to stage a contest properly this late in the month.

It is claimed by Gleason that he has the consent of McFarland to a match to be fought here this month. If this is so Jack could do a lot worse than match Cyclone Johnnie Thompson and McFarland for this month. Thompson and McFarland have been talked of as a card but the match does not look good to the promoter and he will not sign it. Unholz and Thompson look good to Gleason, though, and if he could get Unholz that would most likely be his card. A match between McFarland and Cyclone Thompson looks to the writer to be the best of the lot and if Gleason can get McFarland he can easily get Thompson. Matched at a weight that will not pull him to pieces this fellow Thompson will put up a fight that will keep the public guessing as to the victor with any fighter in the business with the exception of Gary. Matched with McFarland, who is not rated the hardest hitter in the world, he would make an interesting fight.

Thompson Good Man.

Thompson is the sort of fighter who will always make an interesting fight whether he wins or loses for his ability to take punishment and his aggressiveness has only been equalled the last few years by the hammer-battering ram, Battling Nelson. Thompson fought and knocked out Fred Ward at Vallejo in six rounds on December 11 of 1906, and four days later he beat Jack Clifford in five rounds at Marysville. In both of these contests he entered the ring at a weight he could get to without weakening himself and he simply smothered his opponents.

February 22 of last year he met Rufe Turner and did the same thing to him. Thompson is not a fighter who has never been beaten or one who could be called a champion, but he is a fighter of the sort that people like to see in action and as the people at this end of the country are dead anxious to see McFarland in action, Gleason in matching that pair would be giving McFarland a try-out that would prove his worth and if he was successful in beating Thompson he would be a still better card for the following month but he had run the gauntlet of lightweights or been defeated. The big match that Gleason over looked, however, is the Jimmy Gardner-Harry Lewis welterweight championship contest.

The bout would have been an expensive one to handle as the railroad fares would have been high, but with the reserve clause in the articles to hold the winner for another fight the contest would have been a good one. Harry Gilmore, Jr., the manager of McFarland, has sent word to Gleason that he has matched his fighter to meet Welsh at Milwaukee in a ten-round contest and if this is true then of course, the promoter can do nothing with the Cyclone and McFarland.

The reports from the East have been so changeable regarding the movements of the fighters that one can hardly believe anything he hears about them. McFarland would get a great deal more money around San Francisco than he would in the East if he can make a hit here and with this knowledge it might be possible that Gleason will yet sign him.

Burns and Palmer.

Word has come from London that our Tommy Burns has hurt himself and that he has a bad cold. But, dear reader, the chances are that before you have read this article Tommy will have beaten Mr. Jack Palmer to a frazzle. The Englishmen want 3 to 1 for their money in a bet against the champion, and who can blame them? If the contest was being pulled in this country it would be hard to find a man who would lay 1 to 10 that Palmer would win. The betting on the other side has been done mostly on the number of rounds that Palmer will stay and perhaps Tommy will make a clean up on this kind of betting for it is almost a certainty that he can beat Palmer inside of six rounds. The bad leg and the awful cold may be to loosen the betting on the number of rounds a little.

Marysville Card.

Marysville has signed a contest for Washington's birthday which is to be fought in the open air. Sol Levinson acting for the Marysville people yesterday signed Kid Farmer and Frank Mantell for the event. Mantell is the newest arrival from the East and his chief claim to recognition is the fact that he knocked out Honey Melloy for the welterweight title. Mantell was afterward beaten by Harry Lewis, but the trick was done in such a way that Mantell's claim of a chance blow has some foundation. Farmer is the sparring partner of Abe Attell, and lost to Mike (Twin) Sullivan in the south a short time ago and beat Frank Mayfield at Sacramento last month in good style. The contest has the appearance of being a good one.

Iron Man Charlie Dunn and Maure Herrera are to meet tonight at Bakersfield in a twenty round contest. Dale Gardner the fast coming fighter of this city has been offered a chance to meet the winner.

WELSH-M'FARLAND FIGHT IS NOW DECLARED OFF

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 10.—Freddie Welsh, the crack English lightweight, is here, but he considers his offer to fight Packey McFarland in San Francisco this month off. He will have a conference with McFarland's manager today. Welsh has had many offers from clubs in the country. If McFarland cannot be signed for a fight with Welsh in Milwaukee the club intends to substitute Boer Unholz. Welsh has two offers from San Francisco, one from Peoria, Ill., and another from Dayton, O., for a match with Maurice Sayers.

Phoenix Win From All-Stars

The Gantner-Matthews of San Francisco did not appear at St. Mary's yesterday. They evidently concluded that it would be impossible for the grounds at the college to dry out. The heavy rains of the previous night, however, were beneficial rather than harmful and so at the last hour the All Stars of Oakland were substituted.

An immense gathering was on hand to witness the 1908 Phoenix's debut. Hal Chase, too, was a mighty attraction. The game was very interesting. The All Stars played much better ball than the score warrants. Schimpf pitched a good, consistent game. He retired at the end of the sixth in favor of O'Banion.

From first appearances it looks as if the Phoenix will sustain for the college the brilliant reputation of the past. Considering that the college boys have had little or no practice, due to the continued inclemency, their exhibition yesterday was indeed encouraging from the college supporters' viewpoint.

Of course, Hal Chase was Hal Chase yesterday as always. Brilliant, playful and full of pep, proven with a flourish. The Phoenix is sure to be inspiring and this in itself is sufficient cheering for any team. A week's good weather with Chase at work will put the Phoenix right on edge. Krause did not pitch yesterday, as Chase wished to show the fans a newcomer in the person of little Frankie Hart, whose previous work on the mound in the point of graduation has only one parallel in the history of baseball at St. Mary's. The other was Joe Corbett. Six years ago Hart was the all-important twirler for the Michigan or Seventh team of the college. Since then he has worked his way up this seven-round ladder and yesterday he perched himself securely on the very top. Hart's work against the All Stars was: Allowed four hits, fanned ten and walked four. Eddie Hallinan at third, another of last year's second team, looks good. Frank Dunn, a substitute of the 1907 Phoenix, is now a fixture. Garibaldi and Collins, two new men, are classy players. Feeney and Duggan are fast getting into last year's stride. Burke a former second team man, will certainly do.

Neill Matched With Hornbuckle

SANTA ROSA, Feb. 10.—Al Neill of San Francisco will meet Hornbuckle on the night of March 5. The pair are to fight twenty rounds. There is an old grudge between the men and a great fight is expected when they meet.

JOE CORBETT, FAMOUS BALTIMORE STAR, IS PRACTICING FOR THE COMING SEASON

Rumor Has It That Big League Clubs Are After Him, but He Will Likely Pitch for Santa Cruz.

By T. P. MAGILLIGAN.

For one hour and a quarter the writer yesterday had the joy of seeing a great baseball artist in action at Page and Steiner streets in San Francisco. The artist was Joe Corbett, former Oriole pitcher, and what memories came back!

It was the same swing, the same side arm delivery that was a fearsome thing in the days when baseball was a man's game. The writer was highly surprised to see Corbett hurling the sphere, and bred in that school of curiosity which demands an answer, even an impertinent one, was to the fore with the ever pertinent "Why?"

The diffident Mr. Corbett, always willing to dodge the present issue, was as non-committal as the sphinx in her sands of Egypt.

But Oakland gossip has it that Mr. Corbett is to accept a Santa Cruz offer to play baseball this coming summer with the Sand Crabs.

May Play in East.

Eastern rumors are to the contrary, however, for Joe Corbett is grooming himself for a return to an Eastern engagement, and Dame Rumor that scowl, has wagging tongue set that Corbett will this year wear a St. Louis or a New York uniform.

Eastern papers hint that Corbett is being sought by McGraw of New York and by McCloskey of St. Louis. Corbett was asked point blank by the writer what he was practicing for, but the answer was such a one that even a clairvoyant could gain no sequence out of it.

The writer is as ignorant of the Corbettian intentions as before he saw Joe hurl the sphere, but that Corbett intends to play baseball again this summer is the only logical conclusion.

California has sent its Mike Donlin, its Jerry Denny, its Bill Langes to the East; but never did all player create such an Eastern furor as did this same Corbett.

The writer, whose business it has been for these ten years to know baseball, was in the East when Corbett, a mere sapling of a lad, came East.

Corbett Joins Baltimore.

McGraw's fame then was on the ascendency. Since then McGraw has been the wizard of the baseball, and his name has been a household word. McGraw saw Corbett, talked with him, signed him, and Corbett became the best pitcher that Baltimore has ever known.

Those were the days of baseball; such baseball as was never known before and has never been known since.

The writer knew the Corbett, the McGraw, the Jennings, the Ebbetts, and he denies any one to produce the self-same equals of this old Baltimore school.

There was never a baseball team that used the same brains in baseball that the Orioles used, and that was the fountain head of baseball. They were the originals. All others copied.

The spitball, the squeeze play, the hit and run, and all these plays are talked of as new, but one of them is new to the writer. We saw them all back in the days of the Baltimore club, with its McGraws, its Corbetts, its Kellers, its Kellers, its Reitzels and its Brodies.

That was a team that never knew its equal and will never have a fellow. The announcement that Baltimore was to play in a city meant crowded grounds, and such crowds saw those games as they never witnessed since.

The reason was not far looked for. These players played baseball for the sheer love of the game.

We will go back a page or two in the history of baseball and have a look at baseball as it was played and appreciated a decade ago.

It is a Cleveland afternoon and the Temple cup series is on in Cleveland. The Clevelanders are in a gala day uniform. The myrmidons of Cleveland are at the grounds and it is the final battle.

Young, that Cantonese gentleman, who is still a baseball veteran, is to pitch for Cleveland. There is a deal of Cleveland pride in Young. He is a veteran of many seasons and great triumphs. Baltimore is to oppose Cleveland with the upstart Joe Corbett.

What a triumph over Nobilis, the Boston veteran, but that Cleveland audience, self-satisfied and smug, cannot see a Corbett slay a Young in the box.

Young, the veteran, opposed to Corbett, the sapling, it is another encounter between a veteran and a youngster. Cleveland crowd can see only a Cleveland victory. But as that game proceeds the bets of Cleveland slanders are silenced by that Corbett cross-fire.

Injuring after injures wears its tedious way along. No Cleveland runs are forthcoming. Baltimore is touching those Cleveland shots with some turn of life, and they pile up one, two and three runs.

The game is finished. Corbett and Baltimore have won the game 3 to 0 and the Temple cup, the greatest series at baseball that has ever wound its way into the game.

The scene is closed, the curtain is drawn, but the real drama is yet to come.

Frank de Hass Robinson, the friend of Mark Hanna, of Senator Foraker, and a man of political and social potentialities in Ohio, is owner of that Cleveland club. He sees the Temple cup shot away from him by a mere boy of 18, but he is appreciative, and climbing down from that president's box he embraces the 18-year-old Corbett, and with pompous praise marvels that an 18-year-old lad can slay the McKeanes, the Childs, the Taberns, the McAlleens, and what other Titanic ball players that call themselves Clevelanders, and this was only ten years ago.

The Corbett of today is the same Corbett he was in those by-gone days, only he has more strength, and more vim, and more skill, and more seasoning. He is bigger, stronger, better than he was in those days.

When Corbett was right he was the best drawing card in the business. The writer remembers Corbett when he was in St. Louis and Corbett pitched for the St. Louis Nationals then, and any time he was announced as the pitcher the crowds were enormous.

JOE CORBETT, ONE OF THE BRAINIEST BALL PLAYERS IN AMERICA, WHO WILL PITCH FOR SANTA CRUZ THE COMING SEASON.

KELLER WILL FIGHT DALE GARDNER AT RELIANCE CLUB

Owing to the fact that Maurice Thompson met with a serious injury to his knee while boxing with Young Ketchel, it was necessary for the Reliance Club to find a substitute as an opponent for Dale Gardner in their main event of this month's show, which will take place on the eighteenth and yesterday several men were tried out at the club gymnasium.

Terry Keller was selected from the lot as the most suitable and he will appear with Gardner in the wind up of the evening.

Keller is a long, rangy fellow, with an extremely fast left hand and should make Gardner hump himself to win.

He has had several contests in and about Salt Lake City and Ogden where he is rated one of the best of the local boys. Keller has had ten fights, winning four by knockouts, four by decision and fighting two draws. He is on the coast with Cyclone Johnnie Thompson, who is willing to make any kind of a side bet that his fighter wins.

TOMMY BURNS FIGHTS JACK PALMER IN LONDON TONIGHT

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Tommy Burns, the American heavy-weight pugilist, who will meet Jack Palmer of New Castle today for the heavy-weight championship, has been forced to forego a part of his usual training during the past week, owing to a severe cold and a strained tendon in the right foot, but he is confident of his ability to make short work of his opponent. The American is still a strong favorite in the betting. Even the north countrymen, who are noted for the way in which they will back an Englishman against a foreign fighter, are asking long odds before laying their money. They have offered, however, to place $5000 at 2 to 1 that Palmer will stay six rounds. Burns backers have not taken this bet, but Burns, nevertheless, believes that the fight will not last longer than that. He said today that he intended to make the California Wins From St. Mary's

The California University basketball team defeated the St. Mary's college basketball team at the Reliance Club last Saturday night by a score of 37 to 3. In the first game played with California the varsity team were also the victors, winning by a score of 49 to 8.

Dodd, forward on the St. Mary's team, made the three counts on fouls, no field goals being chalked up to the score of his team. Varsity forward Hart made ten points on field goals.

The varsity is to play the team of the University of the Pacific next Saturday night at Harmon gymnasium. The line-up was as follows:

St. Mary's—Forwards, Dodd, Dunn; center, Burke, R. Macneil; guards, Concanon, McDougall, H. Macneil. California—Forwards, Hart, Cortel; center, Sorenson; guards, Hirsch, Schwartz.

to 1, and his name was great in that city.

This was in 1904, and the writer opines that the Corbett of today is a greater pitcher than he was in those Baltimore or St. Louis days.

If Corbett goes back in baseball the writer predicts that he will be better than he was in Baltimore or St. Louis, and the writer fears that Corbett either intends to join Santa Cruz or go East, else why that hour and a quarter's practice yesterday?

Chance Leaves For Windy City

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 10.—Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago Cubs, the world's champions at baseball, left here today for Chicago. He will go by way of San Francisco.

Chance made a book at Santa Anita and came out on the long end of the game. Chance predicts that Cubs will win the pennant again this year.

E. F. PRESTON IS NOW AN ABSENTEE BOOKMAKER

Acrobatic Performance of Shenandoah Gets Flashy Bookmaker in Bad Way With Authorities.

BY LEE DEMIER.

Bookmaker F. Preston (Fad and Fancies), who has been operating one of the biggest stores at Williams Park was an absentee Saturday. It was learned from one that knows that Preston's name had been on the list of bookmakers intending to operate for the next three day-cut-in, but when the list was submitted to the stewards Preston's name was ordered scratched.

It is said that Preston's troubles started with the acrobatic performance of the horse Shenandoah. The man with the flashy waistcoat and shoes to match was reported to have cleaned up handsomely on the day that Chalm's horse finished among the class and in his subsequent start when he won.

While the stewards were investigating Chalm's horse came forward with a story stating that when Moss Goldblatts filly, "Keep Moving," failed to capture the Oaks preliminary he got stung for a bunch of coin, as Goldblatts told him the filly could not lose, and that he was taking the others. To exact matters Bookmaker Bowman stepped off the block and made his way to the stand when Goldblatts' filly won the opening race and bid the horse away from $400 to $1000 and led the horse away for the latter figure. Now Bowman declares that he was approached by Preston and asked to sell the horse back to Goldblatts. The big bookmaker said that he would give $2000, and the first time the horse started to lay against him he got stung for this affair will be watched within a week.

The following thirty-three books out on Saturday: Bain, Oakland, Brueviant, Beatty, Ingels, Corbett, Emery, Cole, Berkeley, Pillsbury, Rife, Seattle, Nevada, Bohemian, Joe Rose, Walter, New York, Engstrom, Goldfield, Rhondaw, Central, Oakland, Cleveland, Schreiber, Schley, Fairstar, Christopher, Colonial, Golden Gate, St. Louis, Italian and Melbourne.

The following were Saturday's scratches: Johnny Lyons, Mandator, Red Bull, Maxtrous, Mansard, Flausible and Keep Moving.

That famous horse St. Simon was twenty-seven years of age last month. He was purchased for the Duke of Devonland by the late Matthew Dawson for $5000, and was never beaten in public. He had won $125,000 in a day, in addition to spring many winners for the Duke himself. Although very old, as horses go, St. Simon is almost as fresh and well as a two-year-old.

Mrs. O'Farrell was not stiff in the opening event, but the lady from across the bay could not make a move. She was hindered by Sullivan putting up a first-rate ride on Ramsey's mare.

Canada Jack Adkins writes from Arcadia that the money market is so tight that a ten-dollar bill looks as big as a Canadian blanket.

At Arcadia Saturday Rubie, owned by H. E. Rowell and ridden by Walter Miller, won the Ventura handicap, a mile and an eighth, with $1000. Rubie was 8 to 1 in the betting and Early Tide at 20 to 1 was second. Riffman finished last in the field of nine. Three horses were in the money. Rubie rode three winners and Miller two.

Just before reaching the wire in the first event the Chevalier, Apollo, Coler was cleverly escaping even a snake-up.

Duke of Orleans received great support, so much so that the Rice gelding opening at 10 to 1 was played down to 3 to 1 at post time.

Properly Note—The race was flooded with the yellow rain on Saturday.

Mandator, the added starter in the Palace Hotel handicap, made his first appearance at the post and ended by falling as the barrier went up. Sand, who was riding, escaped without a shaking.

Shenandoah, winner of the fifth race, was bid up $300 above his selling price of $800 b. Goldblatt, but was retained by his owner Stover.

Dollie Dollars ran back after last race and won the concluding event by six open lengths.

"Saphro" Coles rode the best he knew now on the 250 to 1 shot, Phel Abbot, and even lodged a claim of foul against the riders of Shenandoah and Dorado, but the judges couldn't see it the way "Saphro" did.

Clamor was sore and stiff and not the same horse he was in the Burns handicap.

Now that Horace Egbert has given out to the racing world his temporary retirement from the turf, the Seattle racing authorities will not be compelled to take a trip over the Rockies to find a good available man to take Egbert's place. We have such a man right in our midst and his name is plain, Fred Mulholland.

Handicapper Kelly, one of the best post riders in the country, made his first appearance in the saddle this winter on May Amelia, who captured the third race under the clever handling of the Golden Gate boy. When Kelly demounted he was given a rousing reception from his many friends.

Here's what happened to St. Francis in his race the other day. He came out of the contest lame, with a badly cut leg and with three of his shoes missing.

WILLIAMS PARK RESULTS.

It is reported that they have Bookmaker Preston finally forced to a drive. You can always take a ticket on Joe Stover (F. Angel) who is the same old sport with or without.

Sam Hilditch's colors were flashed past the wire at both ends Saturday. Tom Frost won at Arcadia and Rapid Water at Williams Park.

THE TRIBUNE'S lookout man passed around five winners Saturday.

In explanation of the remarkable form shown by Ethel Abbott in her race of Saturday students of form are respectfully referred to races 209, 295, 308 and 1896. Noth's horses are always doing their best.

Richard Dwyer (Our Dick) will take his place at the barrier this afternoon. Reports from Arcadia say that Dwyer's work at the barrier was of the gilt edge kind during his engagement at the Santa Anita track.

Before leaving for Arcadia Starter Jake Houtman donated Handicapper Kelly a package containing a $50 fine for trying to beat the gate in the two-year-old race. Kelly had the mount on Modern.

"Daggle" Smith shipped Lee Rose to Arcadia last night. With the speedy son of St. Americas he should gather in some good purses.

Tab Ramsay will let up on Reggie Davis for a few weeks. The boy is not in good health and needs a rest.

Official 1-2-3 Martin was among the missing Saturday.

Ed Harmon is here from Meattie to hire a few horses for the summer meeting at the Meadows.

Old Honest, one of the most consistent stake horses racing at New Orleans this season, won the new St. Charles 7-8 mile handicap at a mile and a quarter Saturday.

Fitzgerald Fights Draw With Russell

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10.—The Russell of Philadelphia and Willie Fitzgerald of Brooklyn fought a six-round draw here last Saturday. Russell outboxed Fitzgerald, but the latter was the better ring general and this got him a draw with the rugged Philadelphia boy.

Archbishop Riordan May Be a Cardinal Cable Advices to This Effect Reach America Simultaneously With San Francisco Prelate.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Cable advices received here simultaneously with the arrival of Archbishop Riordan of San Francisco and his secretary, give rise to the report that Pope Pius has about decided to elevate Archbishop Riordan, Archbishop Farley of New York and Archbishop O'Connell of Boston to become cardinals.

Catholic prelates here refuse to discuss the subject of American cardinals but many are confident the report is well founded. It is widely known that a majority of the most powerful prelates at the Vatican are constantly urging the election of American cardinals and it is accepted here that the most likely of elevation are the three archbishops named.

THINK DR. HANNA WILL BE HIS COADJUTOR

Prelate Talks of Affairs of Catholic Church Discussed at Vatican.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10. — After a visit of two months at the Vatican, where he held many conferences with the Pope, his Grace Archbishop Patrick W. Riordan of the diocese of San Francisco arrived here on his way home and will leave for his trip across the continent on Wednesday or Thursday after resting at the home of Monsignor Lavigne, vicar general of the archdiocese of New York. With the archbishop is his private secretary, the Rev. D. O. Crowley.

Archbishop Riordan has fully recovered his health, which worried his friends before his departure for Rome and since the shock of the great fire.

It is expected by the Archbishop that the Rev. Dr. E. J. Hanna of Rochester, New York, will be accepted and appointed as coadjutor to succeed the late Archbishop George Montgomery.

During his stay in Rome Archbishop Riordan took an active part in the discussion of modernism of the American clergy that led the Pope to issue an encyclical that stirred the Catholic world. Among the most prominent prelates charged with modernism was Dr. Hanna and he was stoutly defended by Archbishop Riordan. That the archbishop was convinced that Dr. Hanna was falsely accused is the belief of the Archbishop, who expressed surprise that the case of Dr. Hanna should have aroused such widespread interest.

Decision in March.

Discussing his visit to Rome generally and the case of Dr. Hanna in particular, Archbishop Riordan said: "Things move slowly in Rome. The consistory meets every month. At the last meeting, which was held on January 13, the question of the appointment of Dr. Hanna was postponed.

"As the consistory discusses at alternate meetings church affairs in the Orient and in the west, the meeting in February will be devoted to eastern affairs and the appointment cannot come before the consistory until March.

"The Roman See is most conservative and most anxious to have every thing cleared up when a candidate is named. Someone wrote that it would be well to look into some of Dr. Hanna's writings. I happened to have the writings in question with me and presented them to the college of the propaganda myself. There was nothing in them that anyone could take any exception to."

"Do you think the attack upon Dr. Hanna was caused by jealousy?" was asked.

Praises Writer.

"I would not attribute such a motive to anyone," replied the prelate. "In a world-wide church like the Catholic, any priest of layman has a right to send a letter to Rome calling attention to the public expression of any bishop or priest which he thinks erroneous. No censure can be given for such an act."

"Do you know Dr. Breen who wrote to Rome regarding the writings of Dr. Hanna?"

"Yes, and he is an excellent man. Let me say, too, that the names of three candidates for the coadjutor archbishopric in San Francisco have been sent to Rome—Dr. Hanna of Rochester, Father Nagle of Boston, and Father Lawlor of St. Paul. Any one of these would be highly acceptable. As I said, however, things move slowly in Rome. When people are so far away it takes time, but time does not count for much in our church which already has lasted for 2000 years and will live forever."

Discusses Modernism.

"What have you to say in regard to modernism?"

"There are always in the world errors and opinions floating about. Finally they crystallize into some form of expression. Then the church determines whether they are correct or not. This serves as a warning that the Holy See says that they must stop if they are errors. We talk more than we think and it is the duty of the church to keep sound the form of the doctrine. Words do not ever perfectly express a doctrine, and therefore it devolves upon the Holy See to maintain the purity of the doctrine."

Archbishop Riordan declares that Pope Pius is in very good health for a man of his years. He says that His Holiness shows an intense interest in American affairs and is well informed upon the most up-to-date happenings in this country.

In response to an inquiry upon the separation of church and state in France, the archbishop said:

"The most conservative minds of the church in Europe now believe that the separation will work out for the best interests of the church. France has a Republican form of government with a monarchical heritage. It lacks the power of government and has not been taught how to let people alone."

As the big liner warped into her dock Archbishop Riordan grew reminiscent. He said:

"This trip of mine is especially interesting because fifty years ago I left New York to go to Rome as a student at the American college there. The college was not finished when I reached there and I stayed at the propaganda for a year. Then the college opened and I attended it."

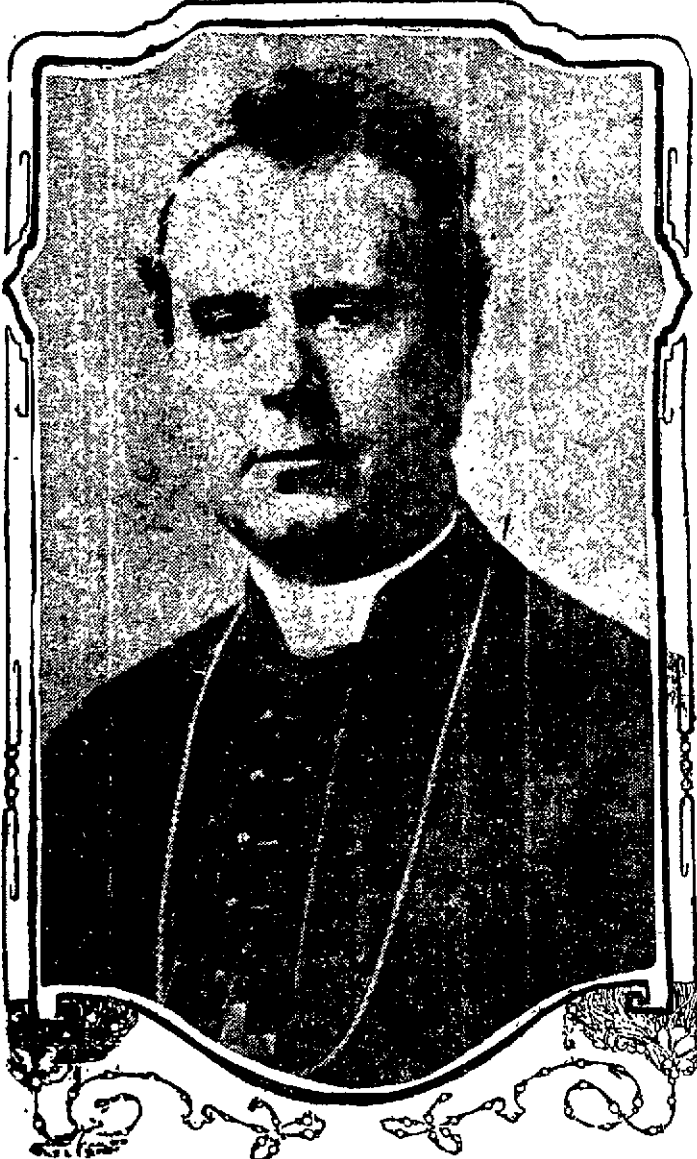

Explains Action.

"Next year will be the semi-centennial of the American college, but I fear I shall not be able to go to Rome for the ceremonies. There were only twelve of us in that first class and only four of the twelve survive—Father Fols of Staten Island, Archbishop Seaton, now in Rome, Father Merrivether, who since has joined the Jesuits, and myself. The late Archbishop Corrigan was also a member of the first class."

"It is not true that I went to Rome for the purpose of urging the candidacy of Dr. Hanna," continued the Archbishop. "I went there primarily for a rest and the question came up while I was there."

Archbishop Riordan has been invited to attend the celebration of the centenary of the New York archdiocese which will be held here in April and if his duties in San Francisco will permit he will accept.

An elaborate series of ceremonies occupying an entire week in being planned by the New York clergy, and it is expected that many prelates from all parts of the United States will participate. At the time the College of Propaganda in Rome was considering the charges of modernism against Dr. Hanna it was stated that he had been requested by the Vatican to write during the postponement of his appointment a suitable

NATION'S LEADERS' TRIBUTE TO PRIEST

President, Fairbanks and Beveridge Extoll Late Father Stafford's Helpful Life.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—President Roosevelt, Vice-President Fairbanks, Senator Beveridge and Harris Taylor, former Minister to Spain, yesterday paid tribute to the memory of the late Rev. Dr. Joseph Stafford, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, in honor of whom services were held at Chase's Theater yesterday.

In a letter President Roosevelt wrote:

"It is eminently befitting that men of widely different creeds, Protestant and Catholic, Jew and Gentile, should meet in memory of this, our brother, who in his lifetime strove manfully to do good to all men, and whose charity of heart and breadth of vision was such that all could work with him who sincerely wished well for mankind. The forces of evil are strong enough, however, and they should not be re-energized from the ranks of those who under different banners war for a common object, nor should they who in reality have a common enemy turn their arms against one another. In our belief in the deep, underlying essentials which go to make up the finest type of character, we should all be one, and the finest type of character will always seek expression in service to mankind such as Father Stafford rendered."

DETROIT HAS FIRST DRY SUNDAY TRIAL

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 10.—Detroit spent its first dry Sunday yesterday, and that dry meant dry is admitted by those engaged in the liquor business.

Hotels closed their bars, and even for guests there was nothing doing. They started out to serve liquor to their guests and no-one else, and some bright-minded man conceived the idea of registering in the customary manner and then getting drunk as he wanted them. But some one tipped it off to the police, and the hotel-keepers were warned to get on the safe side by serving no guests, either legitimate or otherwise.

ELLSWORTH WOULD CHANGE JUVENILE COURT HOURS

Superior Judge Believes 4 O'Clock Too Late to Start.

Juvenile Court by gas-light is objectionable to Superior Judge John Ellsworth, who acted in Judge Ogden's stead last Friday. There were twelve cases on the calendar and the session lasted till after dark. "Four o'clock is not the hour for a Juvenile Court," Judge Ellsworth said, gazing first at his watch and then at the calendar. Clerk Rudolph, Bailiff Sturtevant and Stenographer Riley breathed a hearty "amen" to the judicial objection. The Probation Officer suggested three o'clock as a better hour, but seemed quite willing for court to continue till midnight.

Prior to the appointment of a full-time probation officer last June Juvenile Court sessions were few and far between, but Probation Officer Riess says that as soon as there was established a regular time and a regular office for juvenile court and probation work, troubles began to come pell-mell without invitation. There are now about seven hundred juvenile and adult records on file in the probation office. Two-thirds of these belong to the last seven months, and one-third to the four years prior.

The ninety-ninth anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln will be appropriately observed by Admiral D. D. Porter, Post No. 108, Grand Army of the Republic, on Wednesday evening at the First Unitarian Church, Fourteenth and Castro streets. The Rev. Comrades of the G. A. R., Ladies of the U. S. A. R., the Woman's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans, Spanish War Veterans, all affiliated organizations, and the general public are invited to be present.

The Juvenile Court session has been set at four o'clock heretofore in order that no children might be excused from school to attend court, and in order that school teachers and principals might not be subpoenaed to attend during school hours. Probation Officer Riess believes that 3 o'clock would not interfere with the schools.

S.S.S. KILLS THE GERMS OF SCROFULA

One of the unchangeable laws of nature is that "like shall beget like." Parents who are related by the ties of blood, or who have a consumptive tendency, or other family blood taint are sure to transmit it to their children in the form of Scrofula. Swollen glands, brittle bones, weak eyes, hip disease, pale, waxy complexions, sickly bodies, running sores and ulcers, etc., are the usual manifestations of the disease. Those who have inherited a scrofulous tendency may succeed in holding it in check during young, vigorous life, but after a spell of sickness, or when the system begins to weaken and lose its vitality from other causes the ravages of the trouble will become manifest and sometimes run into Consumption. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and forces out the scrofulous deposits, kills the germs and completely cures the disease. It changes the quality of the blood by removing all impurities and poisons, and supplying this vital fluid with rich, health-sustaining qualities. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable medicine, and is especially adapted to systems which have been weakened and poorly nourished by scrofulous blood. Literature on Scrofula and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.
